Area officials eye federal funds for court construction

By JIM CARRAVALLAH
Roman Staff Writer

Representatives of five communities sharing the 34th District Court in Romulus will seek approval from their respective boards and city councils this week to form a court operations committee.

Resolutions calling for sharing of court costs and describing the operating body have been submitted to Romulus and Belleville and Huron, Sumpter and Van Buren townships. This is the first official step by a two-year-old "ad hoc" 34th District Court construction committee to provide some means for building a new court and to split the costs of operation among those communities using the facility.

Representatives of the five communities and the Wayne County Road Commission, which also will share in the use of the court, agreed last week to form a court operations committee in an effort to qualify for a federal grant for the construction of a new court building.

The grant would cover the entire cost of construction of a facility on the grounds of the Romulus Civic Center near Wayne and Goddard Roads.

If a grant is forthcoming, then each participating community will share in the facility's ownership.

However, the agreement specifies that Romulus will cover the cost of construction if a grant cannot be obtained, and the other communities will cover the interest costs.

Approval of the concept is expected to be obtained at the next meeting of the "ad hoc" committee, scheduled for July 22 at 4 p.m.

If approved, it will mark the first major movement on the replacement of the better than 80-year-old school building being utilized as a court facility in Romulus since the "ad hoc" committee was formed at former Romulus Mayor Terry L. Troutt's insistence nearly two years ago.

Under the plan being proposed to the communities' governing bodies, all communities will share in the costs of operation, and in the reimbursement of fines collected on a "use" formula.

The formula will consider the amount of time each community requires to cover hearings & trials and will pro-rate total court costs back to that community based on that percentage of time.

Court costs actually will come out of the fines collected with any costs about the actual expense of operation being reimbursed to each community based on the same "use" formula.

Under the same formula Romulus would receive approximately 40 percent of the fines collected, Van Buren 25 percent, and the other communities would split the rest.

The grant being sought is the recently approved federal public works grant which provides funds to construct public facilities, providing construction has not begun prior to the grant application.

It is the same grant under which Romulus hopes to one day construct a new fire station.

Assuming that all approvals are obtained from the governing bodies involved in the use of the court, officials are hopeful that the grant application can be forwarded to the federal government within a few weeks.

During the nearly two years of discussions on the court, officials from each of the five communities involved in the utilization of the court endorsed the concept now being proposed to the various governing boards.

What makes Carter tick? We may know in two days

By TOM OCHILTREE
Panax Washington Correspondent

NEW YORK—It may appear cut and dried on the surface, but this most unusual of Democratic National Conventions could perform one major historic mission, namely:

Where does Jimmy Carter, the presumptive presidential nominee, propose to lead his party and the nation?

The answer to that question could tell the American people a lot about Carter's chances to win in November.

Former Georgia Gov. Carter is unique among American political figures. In the past six months he has won 18 presidential primaries and swamped 10 potential Democratic presidential rivals. More than 6 million Americans have given him their votes.

Yet when Democratic Party Chairman Robert Strauss opened the convention Monday evening no one outside Carter's tight little inner circle had any clear ideas where he stood on the big questions of the day.

Is he for more or less defense spending? Will he continue to stress detente with the Soviet Union and Communist China? Will he expand, contract or completely rebuild the nation's social security system? How does he propose to deal with the lurking problem of inflation?

In Carter the Democrats at last last have their long sought unity candidate. He hasn't revealed enough about himself yet to antagonize any section of the party.

But now his moment of truth is arriving. The man Carter selects as his vice presidential running mate will tell us a great deal about Carter's own political philosophy.

Politically conscious people in the United States and in various parts of the world are waiting impatiently to hear what Carter says in his acceptance speech Thursday night.

He has promised innovation but not defined what he means. If he is not more specific from now on the voters could begin to suspect that behind his toothy smile there is no coherent policy at all.

Professional politicians noted that on the whole Carter seemed to have a greater insight into the electorate of 1976 during the early stages of the primary campaign than he did toward the end.

From first to last he proved that he was an extraordinarily skillful politician, but there were signs in the later primaries that the voters were becoming uneasy because they did not know what made the man tick.

At the moment the public opinion polls show Carter a clear favorite to defeat either President Gerald Ford or Ronald Reagan, the two men seeking the Republican presidential nomination.

But it is early days yet. The Republicans will convene in Kansas City August 16 to pick between Ford and Reagan. Which ever man wins can be expected to blast the Democrats as spendthrifts who would add to the taxpayers' burdens.

If he hopes to win, Carter will have to blunt that charge possibly by expanding on his idea to reorganize the federal bureaucracy and cut down its size.

Customers charge harassment

Supermarket owner to fight strike

By JIM CARRAVALLAH
Roman Staff Writer

The owner of one of Romulus' two supermarkets vows to stay open despite a strike against his business by members of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen.

Approximately 20 employees of Bil-Mars Supermarket on Goddard Road in downtown Romulus walked off the job Friday after nearly 1½ months of bargaining when, according to Richard Phillips, president of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters Local 539, William Simons, owner of the supermarket, refused to discuss a pension program for employees.

"To agree to the union's demand would eventually force me to close," Simons said in an ad taken out in the Romulus Roman.

He later told a reporter from The Roman: "They're (the union) asking me to get into a plan that the large chain stores have for people like carry-out boys and packers, and being new in the business, I just can't afford it."

Simons said his business will stay open with the same hours as in the past, and asked in his newspaper ad for the community's support by "crossing the picket line to enable us to keep this store in your community."

Simons' store is one of only two supermarkets in Romulus. The other is Ted's IGA Supermarket at Eureka and Inkster Roads.

According to Phillips, the union members walked off the job "in an effort to win decent wages and to keep off of welfare while working."

"We're not out to put anyone out of business," Phillips said. "But workers in the supermarket have a right to wages which are enough to feed their family and to benefits like other workers."

The union at the supermarket was recognized as bargaining agent by the National Labor Relations Board in late May.

Simons opened the supermarket approximately a year ago after another facility at the same location closed down for nearly six months.

During the shut down of the former Vesco's Supermarket in early 1975, politicians in the community vowed to obtain another food shopping facility for downtown Romulus.

Patrons of the store apparently are upset over the picketing, with some calling The Romulus Roman to complain about the inconvenience.

Said one woman who asked not to be identified: "It's the only place in town where the senior citizens can walk to shop."

"If the people there aren't happy with their jobs, they ought to find another place to work, and leave us with our supermarket."

Phillips said, however, "The union's argument isn't with the shoppers, but with the operators of the supermarket."

"The picketers have been told not to harass the shoppers, but to ask them to support our effort by not patronizing the supermarket."

Persons who called The Roman complained about "harassment" of patrons by picketers. However, a Wayne County Sheriff's Road Patrol spokesman said no incidents have been reported to the police agency. A sign in the window of the supermarket said that the store is open despite the strike, and another sign urges patrons who are bothered by picketers to report the incidents to the sheriff.

No bargaining sessions have been scheduled during the strike.

Summer fun

Youngsters from throughout Romulus are having a fulfilling summer, thanks to a program organized by Marie DeBuysscher's recreation department. As shown at right, Regie McQueen (left), 5, and her sister, Kim, 4, are learning some dance basics in Toni Lewis' ballet class. On Mondays through Thursdays, youngsters such as the ones pictured below get a chance to swim to their hearts' content through a special arrangement made by Mrs. DeBuysscher with the Lower Huron Metropark in Huron Township. Other programs offered by the department include gymnastics, karate and tennis. Youngsters can still enroll in the summer-long project by calling the recreation department at 941-0666.

YWCA tries to dispel watery fears

Swim classes to be offered

Registration will close Friday for the 2-week summer swim instruction program sponsored by the Western Wayne County YWCA in Romulus.

Ten lessons, covering water safety and the proper methods of swimming, will be taught on a "beginner" and "mother-tot" level at the Key Manor Apartment Swimming Pool in Romulus starting July 26 and running until Aug. 6.

Lessons will begin at 10 a.m. weekdays for the beginner classes and at 10:45 a.m. weekdays for the "mother-tot" program.

According to Mary Willoughby, area director for Romulus and Taylor, the program is designed to teach youngsters not only the techniques they will need for swimming, but also the safety responsibilities they undertake by entering water.

"This is an especially important program with the growing number of backyard pools," Mrs. Willoughby said. "Every youngster should learn to swim."

The mother-tot program is particularly unique, featuring preschool youngsters being taught the basics of swimming in the company of their mothers.

For the mother-tot portion only, parents will be required to accompany their children in the pool.

The beginner's class provides the basic education in techniques for swimming and is designed for persons of any age who may want to learn to swim.

Cost for the 10 days of instruction is $12, and parents will have to furnish transportation to the lessons at the apartment complex.

"We're particularly grateful this year for the cooperation of the Key Manor," Mrs. Willoughby said. "Without the owner's generous offer of the pools, the children would have to travel great distances outside of the community to obtain this instruction."

Mrs. Willoughby added that Romulus resident Beverly McAnally, who was influential in developing many programs offered through the YWCA, made the contact with the operators of Key Manor to obtain permission for the use of the pool.

Mrs. McAnally is a councilman in Romulus.

This year's lesson will mark the fourth consecutive year that the YWCA has offered instruction on swimming.

Mrs. Willoughby said the program operators are hoping for full classes, and if more children than can be accommodated in the pool at one time enroll in this year's lesson, other lessons will be arranged.

Also being explored is the possibility of an August swimming class, but plans for that are not firm yet.

The instructor for the lessons will be Mary Cawell, a long-time water safety instructor for the YWCA.

Miss Cawell is qualified to teach water safety instructors.

Registrations for the lessons should be mailed to the Western Wayne County YWCA at 26279 Michigan Avenue, Inkster, 48184, by July 23. Registrations should be accompanied by a doctor's release indicating that the child is physically capable of swimming.

Summer swim

The very young in Romulus have a chance to learn swimming skills long before they acquire a fear of water through the Western Wayne County YWCA's unique "Mother-Tot Swim Program" offered at the community's Key Manor Apartments swimming pool. Here Mary Willoughby, area director of the YWCA, holds up Eric Wollen as his mother, Emily and brother, Randy look on, with Mrs. Grace Drouillard and her children, Jamie and Jason. The Key Manor donated time in the pool to the YWCA as a community service offer.—ANP photo.

Romulus Community Mart to focus on 'nostalgia'

Residents who want to view and remember the Romulus of yesteryear are invited to this week's Romulus Community Mart at the Romulus Progressive Club Hall parking lot near Five Points in the city.

This week's 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday mart will focus on a "nostalgia" display under the direction of Gloria Chandler, one of the community mart's directors.

"We're hoping to have on display all the pictures of graduating classes from Romulus High School dating back to the late 1920s and early 1930s," Mrs. Chandler said. "Since nostalgia is 'my thing,' I'm really interested in seeing what we can come up with which dates back into the history of Romulus."

Mrs. Chandler is asking citizens of the community who may have some historical artifacts, be it clothing, a picture or an antique, to bring that item to the Saturday Community Mart for display.

"We want to share these things from Romulus' past with all residents of the community," Mrs. Chandler said.

In addition to the displays, the mart also will feature the sale of produce, minor antique items and handicrafts as it does each week.

Under the guidance of organizer Beverly McAnally, the Community Mart committee each week combines a "special event" in Romulus by buying and selling in the "old fashioned community way" at the Progressive Club parking lot.

Stalls in the mart renting for $2, with sellers able to rent space each Saturday morning.

"We're trying to bring this nostalgia event to the mart this week to offer the citizens something extra with the bartering," explained Mrs. Chandler. "It's our hope not only to provide citizens an opportunity purchase goods but also to get together with their neighbors in a friendly atmosphere.

"I think the nostalgia theme will help the citizens to know each other a little better."

Mrs. Chandler suggests that any citizen who is interested in displaying some artifacts should call her at 941-2678.

Residents interested in selling items at the Mart should make arrangements Saturday morning.

Groups to search out handicapped children

The Metropolitan Society for Crippled Children has joined forces with Communities United For Action (CUFA) to search out children with handicaps long before they reach school age.

According to Dolores A. Stevenson, publications director for Metropolitan Society for Crippled Children, and Adults, "early detection is vital to the proper diagnosis, treatment and care of disabling conditions."

"The society's dual objectives are to alert parents to early signs of disabilities and to provide evaluation and treatment so that handicapped children can reach the highest level of their abilities in daily living," she added.

Ms. Stevenson said that parents should observe their children intently in an effort to determine whether they are developing at a proper rate. Being slow in their development may indicate a possible handicap, and parents should consider having their child examined by professionals to determine if there is a problem.

Among the "milestones" a child should reach at certain ages are sitting with minimal support at 8 months; sitting alone at 10 months; walk with one hand held at 12 months; walk alone at 18 months; and climb stairs one foot at a time at 36 months.

These and other "milestones" in a child's development are listed in a pamphlet available through the Metropolitan Society and the local Communities United For Action (CUFA) offices.

"While all children do not necessarily develop at the same rate, this pamphlet lists guidelines that parents may use to measure a child's progress and to determine possible developmental deficiencies," said Ms. Stevenson.

Such professionals can be obtained through the Metropolitan Society for Crippled Children at no financial obligation.

Information on the program, and on obtaining one of the "milestone" pamphlets can be obtained by calling the Metropolitan Society for Crippled Children and Adults at 341-4900 or CUFA offices at 292-2110.

Though the CUFA communities in the area are being targeted for the research project, Ms. Stevenson said that residents in all communities in the area should be concerned with the possible problem of childhood handicaps.

HCMA dedicates Willow park unit

It was hard for the youngsters who had been swimming, to contain themselves, but they managed to do so for a few moments as state, federal county and local officials helped to dedicate the new facilities at the Willow Creek Metropark near New Boston.

The new facility, which contains an Olympic-sized swimming pool and games area, officially was open to the public last Thursday amid daylight fireworks and the screams of enthusiastic children, there through a Huron Township Recreation Department program.

On hand to help cut the ribbon for the multi-faceted facility were Congressman William D. Ford (D-13th District); State Rep. Edward Mahalak; representatives of the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority (HCMA), operator of the park, and the clerks of both Huron and Van Buren townships, as well as a representative of Sen. Daniel Cooper of the 11th Senatorial District.

The park, described as "an outstanding addition to a string of parks serving 4½ million people," was lauded by several officials who emphasized cooperation in the completion of the project.

Congressman Ford told those gathered for the ceremony that "there is a continuing future for outdoor recreation" and that "because of cooperation you (the people) get a bang back for the buck."

The new facilities at Willow Metropark include the pool, a bathhouse with heated showers and coin-operated lockers for clothing storage, a food service building and patio, central plaza and 10 shuffleboard, two tennis and four basketball courts.

An unusual aspect of the games site is the tot lot, which has been developed with a town and country theme. A village of child-sized structures that represents homes, factories and other buildings are interspersed among the tricycle "highway" that winds its way through a "rolling countryside". lot also has the standard playground equipment of a spiral slide, swings and benches.

George Giblin, who has been with the HCMA for 28 years has been named superintendent at Willow Metropark. Giblin also manages the Lower Huron Metropark near Belleville and the Oakwoods Metropark near Flat Rock. Assisting him will be Oliver Avery, with John Ward as maintenance supervisor and Steve Shafer as chief park ranger.

The park has been in limited use since 1970, offering visitors picnic-playfield areas, shelters, comfort stations, shorefishing along the Huron River and fall and winter sports.

The entrance to the park temporarily is located on Willow Road west off of Huron River Drive. However, the major entrance will be located at the junction of the I-275 freeway and West Road after completion of that intersection sometime this year or in 1977.

Triplets are star spangled

A Belleville woman celebrated her Bicentennial in style at the Women's Hospital in Ann Arbor.

Mary Pagareski had triplets just before the end of the nation's 200th anniversary of independence July 4.

The three children — Kerri, Jerry and Larry — were born to Larry and Mary Pagareski and doubled the size of the Pagareski family.

The three new Pagareski children were born between 11 p.m. and 11:56 p.m. July 4.

The largest child weighed 4 lbs.-14½ ozs. and the smallest weighed 4 lbs.-3½ ozs. even though the children were born nearly three weeks prematurely.

Although the father and mother were pleased with their Bicentennial births, they expected the babies sometime around July 23.

Larry Pagareski is employed at the Kelsey Hayes Co. in Romulus.

Baldwin eyes 22nd district GOP position

A 25-year-old Ypsilanti investment counselor and insurance salesman is seeking the Republican nomination for the 22nd State Representative District.

He is Robert E. Baldwin, a 1973 graduate of Eastern Michigan University, and a long-time Belleville-area resident.

Baldwin is seeking the Republican nod to oppose incumbent State Rep. Gary Owen, whose district includes Van Buren Township, Belleville and a portion of Romulus, along with portions of western Washtenaw County.

Baldwin said he is seeking the representative post because "government is doing too much in the lives of people" and because he fears that residents will lose control of their local schools if the state delves into total financing of public education.

A member of the Faithway Baptist Church of Ypsilanti, Baldwin is married to the former Suzanne Metcalf.

The Baldwins are the parents of two children, Talon, 3½, and Joel, 10 months.

The young Baldwin is employed by the First Financial Group of Ypsilanti.

Chamber sponsors carnival

The Belleville Area Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring a carnival starting today.

The carnival, to be put on by the World of Pleasure Amusement Co., will run from today until Sunday on Sumpter Road three blocks south of Main Street at Davis Street.

All area residents are invited to attend.

The carnival firm is the same one which put on a carnival over the Memorial Day weekend last year.

Woman's world

Van Buren Township residents with long memories may recall that there was another woman who sought the township supervisors post.

Bertha Vorce was the first woman to serve in the post when she was appointed to the office May 12, 1936 following the death of her husband.

Mrs. Vorce went on to win eight successive elections to the top township administrative post on a yearly basis starting in 1937 and running until 1945. She retired from office in 1947.

This year another woman, incumbent Township Clerk Patricia Cullin, is seeking election as supervisor.

Foreign visitors

From across the border, members of the Royal Canadian Legion Pipe Band, Branch No. 28, arrived in their kilts which added a welcomed colorful touch to the slightly sodden, overcast proceedings of the Van Buren Bicentennial parade. The group, which hails from Chatham,

Residents to pick outstanding youth

Several Western Wayne County residents have been selected to serve on the Citizens committee to pick the first winners of the Congressional Medal of Merit for Outstanding Youth of the Bicentennial Era, according to Congressman William D. Ford (D-15th District).

The panel will be headed by Bernadette Plunkett of Dearborn Heights. The panel includes representatives from the 21 communities within Ford's 15th Representative District.

Serving on the committee will be Adolph Jedryczka of Ash Township, Carleton, Kenneth Palmer of Belleville, Nick Galovich of Brownstown Township, Gene Reeves of Canton Township, Donald Fedon of Flat Rock, Orin Mazzoni of Garden City, Frank Weiss of Gibraltar, Sophie Kucharczyk of Huron Township, Ernest Lyons of Inkster, Dolly Hughes of Livonia, Owen McCourt of Rockwood, Thomas Coleman of Romulus, Gerald Laura of Southgate, Amanda Roberts of Sumpter Township, Beverly Runge of Taylor, Doreen Craven of Van Buren Township, Tom McKay of Wayne, Cathy Shivers of Westland and Richard Palmer of Woodhaven.

"The committee has decided on some basic ground rules for the judging criteria," Congressman Ford said of the competition. "The accomplishments on which the judging will be based must be both outstanding and meaningful. They should not be based primarily on scholarship, athletic ability or organizational membership, nor should they be something for which the nominee received financial payment."

Two awards, in each of two age groups, will be available in each of the 21 communities. One will be for youths aged 14 through 18, or still a senior in high school, and the other for high school graduates, or those in the 18-22 age bracket.

Nominations may be made by individuals or organizations, and should be sent by Sept. 10 to Congressman William D. Ford, Post Office Building, Wayne 48184.

The nominations should include the youth's name, birth date, address, names of parents, telephone number, school or employment, and outline of the accomplishments or activities which make him or her deserving of the award.

Sheriff has jobs

Thirty-two summer jobs with the Wayne County Sheriff's Department at $4 per hour for a 4-month period, beginning this week, have been announced by the Wayne County Office of Manpower.

Those qualifying will do guard duty and have limited driving assignments.

The opportunities are for high school graduates in good physical and mental health, with no criminal record or history of drug abuse, an office spokesman said.

To qualify an applicant must be unemployed 30 days and a resident of Wayne County, excluding residents of Dearborn, Dearborn Heights, Detroit, Lincoln Park, Livonia, Redford Township, Taylor and Westland citizens.

Applicants must be ages 21 to 31, and weight in proportion to height. Also required is a valid Michigan driver's license, a good driving record.

Those interested in qualifying should contact Gary Miller of the Wayne County Office of Manpower Service Center at 36253 Michigan.

Beware of 'bug'

Planning a picnic or camping trip? Ants aren't the only "bug" that can ruin your day.

A spokesman for the Wayne County Health Department said microscopic "bugs", called salmonella bacteria, may be growing wild in your picnic basket.

These tiny organisms are found naturally in many of the foods we all like to take on picnics; chicken, milk, potato salad, and other salads made with milk products or eggs. When these foods aren't kept refrigerated, properly, the salmonella germs multiply rapidly, and when eaten, may cause nausea, vomiting and diarrhea.

Although this bacterial infection normally is not serious in that it usually cures itself in 24 hours, it could spoil your whole day.

To avoid food poisoning this summer be sure to refrigerate picnic food in an ice chest kept below 45 degrees Fahrenheit.

Equal rights amendment supported

To the editor:

The ERA is on the minds of several women and men and I would like to clarify a few facts and also express my reason for supporting it and hoping it becomes the law of the land.

To begin with the amendment already approved by Michigan reads:

Section I - Equality of rights under the law shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any other state account of Sex.

Section II - The Congress shall have the power to enforce by appropriate legislation the provisions of this article.

Section III - This amendment shall take effect two years after date of ratification.

This is the exact wording of the 14th Amendment except they left out sex when they drafted the amendment.

Women, let's stop short changing ourselves. For every "job" we do as a wife and mother, men can be found doing it. Just because a man, your husband, does not cook, doesn't mean men can't cook - look at the famous chef Mike Roy. Just because a man, your husband, doesn't sew doesn't mean men can't sew - look at Richman's 700 fussy tailors. Just because a man, your husband, doesn't do needle point doesn't mean men don't - look at Rosie Grier, the football player.

Things that have to be done around the house are jobs, not men's or women's. I can empty the garbage, cut the grass, balance the checkbook, pay the bills, wash the car, cook the dinner, and fix dessert clean the house and paint the house. These are jobs, not chores designed forever mine or my husbands.

I believe in people's talents and limitations. I believe in people. I got married to my husband to share joys and sorrows through life; to have someone to be intimate with not to be a slave to my husband and family.

Facts to remember that exist:

Judicial decisions 'cause' of crime

To the editor:

As the government continues to turn a deaf ear to the wishes of the people, and the dictatorial judicial branch persists in over-riding the mandate of the people at the polls, (busing, abortion, etc.), government officials will realize, as all tyrants do, the need to disarm the people. Hence, the public is being bombarded by the news media to educate them on the merits of gun control.

It is apparent to anyone that the real cause of crime is a judicial system obsessed more with the rights of the criminal than with that of the victim. The plea bargaining

A. You, women, already can be drafted. For any American citizen is eligible to be drafted; Congress has only drafted men.

B. The constitutional right to privacy guarantees the separations of the sexes in rest rooms, sleeping quarters, and all other public areas where bodily privacy is concerned. How many restaurants now have only one bathroom? Does your private home have separate rest rooms?

C. As far as marriage goes, it is accepted as a union between a man and a woman. In Washington State, one of 15 states having their own equal rights amendment, two male homosexuals challenged the law and their petition was denied.

D. As far as alimony and child support goes, it is according to individual cases. How many men do you know who have child custody?

E. Even though there is an Equal Pay Act that was passed reports for one year period, from July, 1973, to July, 1974 showed that nearly 30,000 women workers throughout the United States were underpaid by more than $18 million. Isn't that short changing ourselves?

I have a friend who is a wife and mother, who has built a garage, laid cement, built a brick wall, fixes her car, keeps her home clean, fixes meals, plus does the yard work. She is only 5'2" and weighs 110 pounds. I don't claim everyone can do everything, but please don't say that no woman can do these things.

Duck hunting ban draws hot criticism

To the editor:

Can anyone doubt that we have been led down the primrose path where Belleville Lake is concerned?

Our free gift from Detroit Edison has turned out to be the personal property (so to speak) of some of the Van Buren board.

One supervisor, without any public discussion, and with the help of a few bleeding hearts on the board, has banned duck hunting on the lake. The ducks are here because of Department of Natural Resources (DNR) money which is supplied by the sportsman and not the general public.

Also, in the same dictatorial manner, they have stalled for two years the building of a public fishing site and boat ramp, and again the sportsman has put up the money through the DNR. The property involved is owned by the state.

I would like to know how many people use Edison Point these days with the asinine management and idiotic rules or ordinances? It looks like we need a man as supervisor and at least one new trustee to replace our local merchant on the board.

Parade chairman commends helpers

To the editor:

I would like to extend my sincere appreciation to all the people who worked so hard with me to make the Van Buren Township Bicentennial Parade a complete success.

First of all, to the ones who have been on the parade committee since it was first formed in March, 1975, my co-chairman and wife, Maxine Heifner; Walter Greene, who served as secretary until he moved to Florida a few months ago; Steve Kuchta, who did such a terrific job as publicity chairman among other duties; Dorothy York, Ed Luebke, Joe Wyatt, Lee Herrmann and Bill Walters, who attended meetings for the last 1 1/2 years and worked so hard on the day of the parade. Lee Herrmann also took over the duties of secretary and did such a fine job.

Thanks to Ed and Cleve Luebke, who designed and built the float submitted as the parade committee float and Ron McCahill, Ken Benyo, Denne Allen, Gary Wheatley, Linda Oja, June Cruze and Richard Bassett, who volunteered their help for the day of the parade. Thanks, too, to my neighbors, Wes, Clara and Kyle Owen and Bert Smith who worked together and took charge of lining up the floats.

A big thank you to the people who did an excellent job on the very difficult task of judging: Jeanette Brown, Eileen Kuchta and Lee Smith on floats; Judge James B. Stone on color guards; and Debra Duane and Lisa Duff on decorated bicycles. Thanks to Bud Brown for setting up the P.A. system and assisting with the trophies.

Thanks to the Van Buren Police Department for its excellent cooperation and efficient traffic and crowd control; the surrounding area

C. B. clubs for their excellent performance in coordinating our communications; and Steven Jr. and John Kuchta for painting all the numbers on the street for the line-up and for distributing the posters.

Another thank you to the Belleville Enterprise for the space it allowed us in publicizing the event and for the excellent follow-up coverage.

And last but not least, I would like to thank all the people and organizations who participated and the children, the mamas, the daddies, the grandmas and grandpas who came to watch the parade.

And my very special gratitude to Philip Cole, our honorable parade marshal.

Each and every one of you added to the success of the day.

Rights of non-smoking employees need boost

To the editor:

Thanks to the many supporters of non-smokers' rights, legislation has been passed which, when effective, will offer some degree of protection to those who, for either health or aesthetic reasons, prefer not to breathe tobacco smoke when frequenting certain buildings subject to public use.

A special thanks to the Governor, the State Health Director, Senator Jack Faxon and Representatives Morris Hood, Claude Trim and John Markes.

But these efforts, although appreciated, neglect and fall short of protecting many individuals who, because of obligations to their jobs, are forced to consume high volumes of tobacco smoke.

These employees, many of whom suffer from respiratory or heart conditions which are aggravated by tobacco smoke, are held captive for eight hours - often in poorly ventilated areas.

A recent court decision in New Jersey ordered New Jersey Bell Telephone Co. to provide a smoke free working area for an employee who had filed suit. Must such a request require such extremes?

We strongly urge management, unions, legislators and especially the individual employee to encourage measures which protect non-smokers while at work.

Reading tests should be given to graduates

State Sen. John Bowman (D-Mt. Clemens) has introduced legislation requiring all Michigan high school seniors to pass a reading comprehension test in order to receive a high school diploma.

Three cheers for Bowman. We have advocated something along these lines for several years.

It is no secret that thousands and thousands of graduating high school students are extremely deficient in reading skills. In fact, some can barely read. It's a miracle they made it as far as they did.

According to Bowman, college entrance exam scores have dropped over the past 10 years. Tests showed there was a direct relationship between low test scores and high school students with poor reading skills.

At one time a high school diploma meant that a job-seeking student possessed the basic skills - including the ability to read - to be fairly successful in whatever endeavor he chose. That's not true anymore.

We agree with Bowman that with 50 percent of every dollar the state appropriates going to education, in addition to half of all property taxes, high school graduates should know how to read.

Should Bowman's bill become law, elementary teachers who instruct children in the basic reading skills will be forced to do a better job. Too often a student who is deficient in reading is just passed on from one grade to another.

The concept of Bowman's proposed law is not new. The Los Angeles school board now requires that all youngsters who finish high school must be able to read - or they don't receive a diploma.

Bowman says it's about time we did that in Michigan. We say it's about time, too.

On the Brighter Side

Graduation day: 1976 vs. 1948

ON THE WIND-SWEPT plains of neglect lie the bleached bones of unfinished deeds.

In the past month, thousands of high school seniors across the nation have left their "hallowed halls of learning." There were tearful goodbyes. School year books were filled with "mushy" compliments and pictures exchanged.

Mixed emotions filled each departing senior's heart. They roamed the corridors one last time recalling joyful memories and dreaming of the challenge of the future. All this came to mind as my wife and I attended the graduation ceremonies of Garden City West High School last month to watch our son, Terry graduate.

The thrilling strains of "Pomp and Circumstance" filled the early evening air above the packed football bleachers. And the stirring chords revived half-dead memories of my graduation night when we gathered in august solemnity to witness the passing of an era.

Seated high on the G. C. West bleachers, my eyes scanned the huge crowd which ringed the field and spilled over into standees around the fence encircling the event. Then the first few strains of "Pomp and Circumstance" heralded the entrance of the graduates onto the field and my mind traveled back to a warm, clear night in 1948.

Into the packed throng of parents and friends at Ford Field marched the blue clad Dearborn High School seniors with hearts thumping wildly to the tempo of this same "Pomp and Circumstance."

The football field yard lines and end zone were obliterated by seated onlookers. The hill overlooking one end zone was a sea of faces. Even the stately trees seemed to bow in respect as they swayed in response to the early evening breezes. The dignitaries seated on the rickety wooden makeshift platform rose as one to welcome our final journey onto Ford Field.

Near the front of the serpentine single-file line of graduating troops, I marched with mortar board erect. I felt lost in a crowd of blue anonymity. My thoughts whiled as if in time to the playing of the band.

I recalled my freshman year when I trembled at the reports that seniors devoured ninth graders for appetizers; how I'd never make the baseball team because there were so many eighth graders flowing into Dearborn High School from all over the west end of the city.

Giant seniors and unfamiliar hallways held fear for a scrawny, timid 14-year-old boy.

My fears proved so unnecessary. Not only did I make the starting freshman baseball team, Coach Bill Rabe paid me probably the highest compliment of my life. After rapping two solid singles off one of the area's leading pitchers, the coach met me as I crossed the foul line and said, "I wish I had five more players like you."

I managed to pass my classes without too much difficulty. The five D-minuses I got one semester in American History just made things more interesting. Also, my preoccupation with sports helped me get a D- in English, but good old Mr. Martin, a graduate of Harvard, no less, let me write for the school newspaper, The Observer, in my senior year.

The music stopped

By JIM BRADLEY
Pastor, Fair Haven Baptist Church

Almost before I realized it, my day dreaming had brought me to my chair and with proper dignity we graduating seniors flopped into our seats.

The salutatorian stood proudly when introduced and spoke with customary polite humility. Then the valedictorian sternly warned the hushed throng of the dire consequences if we failed to go out with ambition, determination and sense of duty to correct the world's evils.

Jubilantly I climbed the steps to the podium when my name was called and felt the firm grasp of Principal Olsen's hand as he gave me my diploma.

Many years have passed since that June night in 1948 and many vows and ambitions are left unfinished.

But just hearing the inspiring notes of "Pomp and Circumstance" once more has rekindled the desire to accomplish all those things a high school senior had faith to dream many years ago.

As Panax sees it

American interests ripe for picking

WASHINGTON — Will America survive her third century? This seems an unserious, even frivolous question to table on the Bicentennial of the Republic that rose from a federation of 13 colonies to the most advanced, prosperous and powerful nation on earth.

Yet the question ought not to be dismissed. For America is of the West. And looking back down the corridor of the 20th Century, it is impossible to view the passage of the West as other than a decline.

At the turn of the century the West was master of the world. Geographically, it is confined now to a corner of the Eurasian land mass and the North American continent. In the former colonies, now the Third World, democracy has gone the way of monarchy; American humiliations serve as occasions for festive rejoicing.

Communism, great heresy of the West, not yet six decades in power, controls a fourth of the earth's surface, a third of its people. And for the first time in modern history, the military balance of power has shifted to the Russian Empire and the East.

This last development seems symptomatic of Western decline. For, together, the United States and free Europe far outstrip the Soviet bloc in technology, population and wealth. With Japan, the anti-Communist bloc has a vastly superior military potential. Absent is the vision to recognize the danger, and the leadership and will to meet it.

In America, the road to political office lies through promises. The statesman who seeks the presidency on a platform of curtailing benefits, imposing austerity and asking sacrifices would be ridiculed out of the race.

In these columns, John F. Kennedy has received a fair measure of criticism. But let it be said that he did speak of patriotism, of sacrifice, of a sense of mission. He saw clearly that history had cast the United States as defender of the ramparts of Western civilization against the rise of Communist power. He did not hesitate to ask his countrymen to accept that challenge and meet that responsibility.

Are these times — when Kennedy's heirs are whining about our being the "world's policeman," when our historic mission has become to "clean up the environment" — better times?

The signs of dissolution and decay are everywhere visible. There is the national preoccupation with sex, the disparagement by the cultural elite of the military and the martial virtues, the widespread use of drugs, the pornography that pollutes the popular culture, the insensitivity to corruption in our business and political leadership, and the loss of authority by institutions everywhere, public and private.

Two decades ago, teachers did not ask their students what to teach. Clergymen did not hold bull sessions with college boys to reach a consensus on what men should believe and how men should behave. The United States did not need to debate itself to know how to respond to insults in international forums.

Republican virtue, the willingness to sacrifice self-interest for the common good, without which no democratic system can long survive, seems rare. It is not simply radical students or the militant young who ignore the rules of civilized society. We have municipal workers who leave rotting garbage piled high on city streets, policemen who walk off their jobs, doctors who strike against the sick for improved pay and fringe benefits.

The muckraker has become the prince of reporters. Many of the young men entering journalism look forward to a lucrative career unearthing and publishing the dirt that will prove the system as rotten and corrupt as they believe it to be.

Though minorities in America — racial, religious and ethnic — have found here material blessings and personal freedoms undreamed of by peoples throughout history, one would think America was Dachau to hear all the groaning and bitching on the public airways about racism, sexism and oppression.

Even some of our Ivy League students — poodles of the over-privileged society — oftentimes affect the garb and claim the status of an oppressed class. Everywhere, the talk is of rights; precious little is heard of responsibility or duty.

Post-Vietnam, a segment of America's political leadership has come to view the use of military force in defense of the national interest or honor as almost immoral. At home, that same leadership, paralyzed with grief and guilt over America's sins, refuses to take the harsh measures necessary to rid society of the army of criminals which preys upon it. A younger, tougher America would have, with a clear conscience, made short work of the enemies within.

Perhaps it is excessive affluence. Perhaps the absence of dangerous frontiers to conquer, or great crusades to carry on. Perhaps it has to do with the emergence of the first generation of Americans to whom almost everything was given, of whom almost nothing was asked.

Well, no matter the cause. To the Soviets, and the other bandits in the family of man, who have in abundance the confidence America's class leadership seems to lack, our far-flung empire of allies, investments and interests must look ripe for the picking.

1976 Democratic platform proposals bear '72 likeness

WASHINGTON — "Skepticism and cynicism are widespread in America," proclaimed the opening sentence of the 1972 Democratic platform. "The people are skeptical of platforms, filled with political platitudes — of promises made by opportunistic politicians."

Four years ago, Sen. George McGovern was buried in a blizzard of Nixon ballots after running on a party platform that was perceived by the voters as "radical," as were the views of the South Dakota Democrat. It promised, among many things, a guaranteed annual income, rational health insurance, and amnesty for draft dodgers and military deserters.

Now here it is four years later and the party of McGovern has been replaced by the Democratic Party of former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter. What do we discover? We discover that while the language of the 1976 platform has been "Carterized" (to prevent political bloodletting), many of the platform proposals that have been adopted for 1976 bear a striking resemblance to 1972.

For example, Carter forces have sanctioned platforms pledging a guaranteed annual income, national health insurance, and a modified form of amnesty for draft dodgers and deserters. Rejected, but not without considerable political fighting, was a plank on homosexual rights, also included in the 1972 platform.

All of which leads to the conclusion that while the strategy and language of the Democratic Party have changed, its real aims and ambitions are no different in 1976 than in 1972. In fact, some of the same New Left faces that were behind McGovern are now behind Carter. Among the former Georgia governor's principle aides, for example, are a number of individuals who worked for McGovern.

Thus it's not unfair to conclude that the New Left radicals who backed McGovern in 1972 have united behind Carter in what the 1972 opening statement of the party platform called "promises made by opportunistic politicians."

As an illustration, the drafters of the Democratic platform refuse to say how much the proposals in the platform will cost the taxpayer. One official estimate made by CBS News puts the figure at $30 billion or more. When McGovern in 1972 put a price tag of $1,000 for each person for his social welfare programs it became a political albatross. So Carter's forces are avoiding the same mistake by refusing to offer specific figures and using language that is a form of surgical alibi to hide the facelift of the 1972 party platform which is being presented as new in 1976.

Carter, hungry for the power of the presidency, appears willing to live with this deceit of his fellow Democrats. Just as Carter has been running against Washington and big government while uniting a party that, having controlled Congress for the last 38 out of the last 42 years, has been the major architect of the gargantuan government that has angered and frustrated so many Americans.

Carter, with equal ease, can accept the endorsement of New York City Mayor Abraham Beame, one of the principle architects of the New York financial disaster that was brought about by the same party philosophy which Carter is now intent on espousing in a bid for victory in November.

And Carter will accept his political coronation in that city, on the brink of financial ruin, while making no moral waves against Democratic party leaders of Congress deeply involved in the current Capitol Hill sex scandals. A remarkable stance for a political leader who has risen to his current heights on a pledge of moral accountability and Baptist religious convictions!

And in this regard, the ringing words of the 1972 Democratic platform have critical currency: "Our pledge is to be truthful to the people and ourselves."

Republicans must close split ranks

By TOM OCHILTREE

By TOM OCHILTREE
Panax Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON — Does the presumptive selection of former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter as the Democratic presidential nominee mean the Republicans will experience a heavy erosion of strength in the "sunshine belt?"

If it does, the Republican Party is in deep trouble regardless of whether the GOP picks President Gerald Ford or Ronald Reagan as its standard bearer.

For years the Republicans have worked to build up their party in that warmer portion of the country which includes the states of the old Confederacy and runs from Florida all the way westward to California. The "sunshine belt" grows in importance in every national election. Politicians with national ambitions understand census figures.

As a former governor of California, Reagan, of course, is a genuine "sunshine belt" political figure himself. This has been an important source of his strength.

That is why Reagan may have been rocked more than Ford by Carter's emergence. With anybody but Carter at the head of the Democratic ticket, Reagan would have a good shot in November at holding much of the southern tier for the Republicans, political analysts said. But only an unprecedented political catastrophe can stop Carter now.

Ford's chances, in contrast to Reagan's, always have rested on the fact of his incumbency and the questionable theory that he would have greater pulling power in the North.

After the conventions are over and the presidential campaign proper gets rolling, Carter is bound to emerge as a source of pride for Dixie. He will give a great many Southerners a sense of belonging the way John Kennedy did Roman Catholics in 1960.

Worried Republicans already are whispering that maybe their party can best save itself by placing Ford and Reagan both on the ticket at the convention in Kansas City in August. But Reagan has said repeatedly that he would not consider the vice presidential nomination, and naturally it would be next to impossible to arrange the ticket the other way around with Ford being demoted to the second spot.

Whether a Ford-Regan ticket is a pipe dream or not, the Republicans will immolate their party if they don't find a way to close ranks after the convention.

Sen. Robert P. Griffin, (R-Mich.) hopes the Republican senators, now divided between Ford and Reagan, actively will aid the post convention healing process. He said he certainly intended to do his best in that regard.

Griffin, the deputy minority leader in the Senate, recently was named Ford's convention floor manager. He subsequently told reporters: "I think maintaining and strengthening party unity constitutes one of our biggest challenges right now."

Surprisingly, the California primary June 8 remains the subject of intense second guessing in Washington political circles.

In that winner-take-all contest Reagan took all 167 California delegates. Obviously, California Republicans would have voted overwhelmingly for Reagan in any event but had the delegates been apportioned in proportion to each candidate's popular vote total, Ford would have received more than 50 of those 167.

That could be the big difference if the President falls just short by a few votes at Kansas City and Reagan comes on to win the GOP presidential nomination.

It has been suggested that the Ford organization, which has made more than its share of errors, made a great tactical blunder by not moving heaven and earth to convince the California legislature, before the primary, of the need to abandon the winner-take-all system.

There were some Ford partisans ready and willing to struggle for such a change, but the White House didn't put enough muscle into the effort. Two weeks before the primary, State Sen. Robert Stevens of Los Angeles sponsored an amendment to change the delegate allocation system. The pro-Regan forces saw to it that it was killed.

If Ford goes down, Sacramento may have been the place where his people blew the ball game.

MR. AND MRS. KENNETH ROSS BLEEKER

After honeymoon West

Newlyweds living in Adrian

The newly wed Kenneth Bleekers are making their home at 141 E. Front St., Apt. 5, in Adrian, following a 2-week motor trip through the West.

Susan Gerette Wallenhorst became Mrs. Kenneth Ross Bleeker during a double ring ceremony May 15 at the Adrian Chapel on the campus of Adrian College.

The 3 p.m. rite was officiated by The Rev. Heath Goodwin and The Rev. George Weslak in the sanctuary which was appointed with palms, candelabras and vases of flowers. Organist was Kerwin Leader of Blissfield and soloist, Jill Thomas, an Adrian College student and close friend.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard G. Wallenhorst of 3705 Burkey Rd., Austintown, Ohio. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Ruth E. Bleeker of 15975 Elwell Rd., Belleville, and the late Richard Bleeker.

For her wedding day, Susan chose to wear her mother's bridal gown from 25 years ago. The satin creation featured a full cathedral train with wide panels of lace adding back interest. The fitted bodice was designed with a scalloped oval neckline and full gathered sleeves. A lace and beaded tiara secured the bride's lace-edged illusion veil and a colonial bouquet of phalaenopsis orchids, stephanotis and baby's breath completed her bridal finery.

The bride's only sister, 16-year-old Betty Wallenhorst, served as maid of honor in a cream-colored gown styled with a Victorian collar, a bodice laced with pink ribbon, long full lace sleeves ending in deep cuffs and a skirt with a lace insert at the front.

She wore fresh flowers in her hair and held a crescent shaped bouquet of pink sweetheart roses, stephanotis and baby's breath.

Attendants in identically-styled frocks in peach, blue, green and violet were the bridegroom's sister, Kathleen Baldwin; the bride's college roommate, Tivila Oxley; and two college friends, Martha Elliott and Liz Cullen.

They added crescents of flowers to their hair in colors to match their dresses and carried starlight bouquets of matching mums and stephanotis.

The bridegroom asked his best friend, Paul Studer of Belleville, to be best man. Groomsmen were Steve Wallenhorst, brother of the bride; John Obermeyer of Spring Lake; Gregory Levick, of Rochester, a cousin of the bridegroom, and David Baldwin of Belleville, brother-in-law of the bridegroom.

The bride's mother appeared in a long aqua gown with long sheer flowing sleeves. Mrs. Bleeker, the bridegroom's mother, wore a sleeveless mint green double knit formal topped with an Alencon lace capelet. Both were presented with corsages of white phalaenopsis orchids and stephanotis.

The 5 p.m. reception was held at the Holiday Inn at Adrian with some 200 guests attending.

The new Mrs. Bleeker is an elementary education student at Adrian College where she is a member of the Home Economics Club, Circle K, the Wesley Fellowship and the Usher Corps. A former member of the Adrian Band, she has been on the honor roll and the Dean's List.

Kenn, a 1968 honor graduate of Belleville High School, attended Washtenaw Community College, Eastern Michigan University, Winebrenner Theological Seminary and graduated in 1975 from Adrian College with a bachelor of arts degree in philosophy and religion. He is employed at Merillat Ind. of Adrian while his wife works in the Adrian College Library.

The Country House in Adrian was the setting for the rehearsal dinner given by the bridegroom's mother.

Bridal Brunch takes friends to Saline

By LEE SMITH
Suburban Living Editor

Friends of the Leo Turney family and their son, Don, in particular, were invited to the Saline home of Lucille Perry last Wednesday for a bridal shower

MR. AND MRS. BRIAN M. MONEYMAKER

brunch honoring Don's fiancée, Sue Holliday of Birmingham. Guests had the opportunity to meet Sue and her mother, Barbara Holliday, over punch served on the Perry's front lawn. The group was then invited indoors for a sit-down brunch at tables appointed with bouquets of wild flowers. Jane Zimmerman of Saline assisted the hostess with the table service.

Couple repeat vows at Baptist church

Emmanuel Baptist Church of Belleville was the setting July 2 for the ceremony which united Kelly R. MacDonald and Brian M. Moneymaker in holy matrimony. Pastor Brian Fujii presided at the double ring rite at 10 a.m.

The bride was dressed in an off-white cotton gown patterned with a high-rise V-neck bodice enhanced with cotton lace. Her flowers were a small arrangement of pink and white carnations.

A reception for 150 guests followed at the home of an uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Pinson of Belleville.

The bridegroom, the son of Mrs. Thelma A. Powell of Belleville, attended Belleville High School and currently is serving with the U. S. Army at Fort Rucker, Ala. where the young couple will make their home for the next two months.

The new Mrs. Moneymaker graduated from Belleville High School and prior to her marriage was employed at MacDonald's on Rawsonville Road.

Quotes worth quoting...

"A true friend unbosoms freely, advises justly, assists readily, adventures boldly, takes all patiently, defends courageously and continues a friend unchangeably."

William Penn said it

Moving outdoors again afterwards, each guest was asked to select a prettily-wrapped package from a huge laundry basket which was passed around. Mrs. Perry then read a poem which explained that if the person was able to correctly guess the contents of her package, she would be able to keep the prize; otherwise it would go to the bride-to-be.

Sue was then seated on the raised patio with her mother, the bridegroom's mother, Virginia Turney, and her future sister-in-law, Wendy Turney, who gave a hand with the gifts.

At the finale, the hostess continued with her original poem which dealt with gifts for the two mothers and thank-you gifts to Bonnie Moon and Mrs. Zimmerman who had helped with the shower preparations.

The 22 guests attending were from Belleville, Ypsilanti, Saline and Birmingham. Sue and Don have set July 31 as the date for their wedding which will be held at the First United Methodist Church in Birmingham.

Billie has a new sister

Bill and Mary Ann Emerson's expected baby, who was scheduled to arrive on the Fourth of July (her great-grandmother's birthday) missed the mark by just two days and, instead, will share her great-aunt Lillian Sietz's natal date. Elisabeth Anne is the name chosen for the new sister of William Barrett (Billie) Emerson, who will be 3-years-old in August.

The baby made her debut July 6 (or 7-6-76 as her dad put it) at 5:37 p.m. at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor. Her weight and length were recorded at 9 lbs. - 2 ozs. and 21½ inches, respectively.

The newest Emerson, who will be called "Beth", is the fifth grandchild of Belleville Mayor and Mrs. Justin Emerson and the fourth for Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sietz of Belleville. Mrs. Mae Znorski of Iron River is the infant's great-grandmother.

Bicentennial baby

Ernest and Frankie Jean Clemens of Jackson Street, Belleville, are proudly proclaiming that on the 200th birthday of our nation, they became grandparents for the third time.

The Bicentennial addition to their family tree is a real Yankee Doodle Dandy, "born on the Fourth of July." Little Staci Lee weighed in at 6 lbs. - 15 ozs. and measured 20-inches on her arrival at Seaway Hospital in Trenton.

Her equally proud parents are Kenneth and Beverly Wrook of Wyandotte. The paternal grandparents, Robert and Virginia Wrook, made the trip down from Holt near Lansing to see the couple's first-born child. The baby's maternal great-grandmother is Mrs. Norrine Drake of Taylor.

A Widow's Stages of Grief
The newly "widowed" each react differently to the death of a mate, to widowhood, to the possibility of an insecure or lonely future. The following observations may help, if only to indicate that certain feelings are not uncommon and will pass.

The widow progresses through several emotional stages during mourning and after the initial shock. If you and she recognize these as stages through which a widow may pass, it may enable friends and relatives to help the widow work through her grieving more fully and effectively.

Sorrow is a basic emotional stage of mourning and very common, sometimes accompanied by expressions of self-pity and or guilt. Another is anger and resentment against a "cruel world" or an "unkind" God who has taken one's mate prematurely. Fears of the unknown future "without him" as companion and breadwinner, husband and father, prime decision-maker and head of the house are not unusual to a new widow.

Anxiety-Uncertainty: "Who will provide for the family? How will I manage my finances alone?" As the widow's confidence in her own abilities is strengthened, her re-entry into the world of reality may be more smoothly achieved. If you and the widow recognize these stages as natural and as fairly common to all persons in mourning, the social adjustments will come quicker and easier for her.

We welcome your questions—in private or publicly, through this column.

Wedding colors carry theme of nation's Bicentennial

Kristen Lee Ferrier, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Ray Ferrier of Belleville, chose to use a Bicentennial color scheme for her June 19 wedding day. At 2:30 p.m. in the Lord of Light Lutheran Church of Ann Arbor, she exchanged vows and rings with Dr. Sean Douglas Hughes, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hughes of Jackson.

Some 100 relatives and friends witnessed the nuptial ceremony conducted by Pastor Gustav Kopka of East Lansing before an altar appointed with baskets of red, white and blue carnations. Stanford Walling provided organ music for the happy occasion.

Escorted to the altar by her father, Kristen appeared in a white organza gown designed with a sheer yoked bodice, high lace neck and capelet sleeves outlined with ribbon and venise lace. The chapel train and long illusion veil, which drifted from a lace cap, also were banded in venise lace.

She completed her ensemble with a semi-cascade bouquet of white roses and miniature carnations.

Cinda Prill traveled from Muncie, Ind. to serve as honor attendant at her sister's wedding. She carried a colonial bouquet of red, white and blue carnations tied with red and navy streamers to harmonize with her red on white dotted swiss A-line gown. The dress featured a white organza cape collar and capelet sleeves edged in lace with red velvet ribbon at the neckline. The same ribbon was used to encircle her white picture hat.

Bridesmaids wearing dresses in navy and white and red and white with matching streamers accenting their bouquets were Rachel Hughes of Kalamazoo, sister of the bridegroom; Mary Elizabeth Vorich of Belleville; and the four junior attendants, all cousins of the bride, Sandra Ferrier of Riverview and Debra, Janna and Tracy Holmes of Dearborn.

The bridegroom's roommate from Michigan State University, Kent Beebe of Grand Rapids, carried out the duties of best man. Ushers were Kent Ferrier of Belleville, and Dan Prill of Muncie, Ind., brother and brother-in-law of the bride, respectively.

At the reception which followed in the church parlors, Mrs. Ferrier received in a red and white print floor-length gown to which she added her corsage of red carnations. The bridegroom's mother chose to wear a mint green giana gown. Her corsage was comprised of yellow roses.

Sixty guests later returned to the Ferrier home for supper after which the newlyweds departed for a week-long honeymoon in Nova Scotia. They have since taken up residence in Hartford, Conn. The bridegroom is employed in an animal clinic in nearby Manchester.

Both young people are graduates of Michigan State University where Dr. Hughes attended the College of Veterinary Medicine. The bride, a 1974 Belleville High School graduate, is employed by the Social Security Administration in Hartford, having been transferred from her post in Petoskey, Mich.

Twenty-two people attended the rehearsal dinner hosted June 18 by the bridegroom's parents at the Briarwood Hilton.

Local girls are Bicentennial campers

Fireworks weren't the only Bicentennial celebration activity to light up the skies on July 4th. Over 10,000 campfires were set ablaze precisely at 10 P.M. EDT Sunday evening as the nation's youth campers joined in marking the country's 200th anniversary.

The national firelighting was sponsored by the American Camping Association and was supported by Girl Scouts of the U.S.A. Locally, over 100 Girl Scouts attending the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council's Camp Linden in Livingston County gathered around their Bicentennial camp fire and sang patriotic songs.

Girls attending the resident camp session at the 400 acre camp near Linden come from communities throughout Washtenaw, Livingston and western Wayne counties. Campers from Belleville were Christine Emerson, Vicki Barnhart, Cassandra Wackus and Elizabeth Gmache.

The celebration of the Bicentennial by Girl Scout campers is particularly appropriate since the organization is one of only two youth groups, the other being Boy Scouts of America, to have been awarded a Congressional Charter.

The Girl Scouts of the U.S.A., which was granted the charter by a special act of Congress in 1950, make a yearly report to Congress on the activities, receipts and expenditures of the corporation.

The purposes of the organization as stated in the Congressional Charter are "to maintain standards for the movement which will inspire the rising generation with the highest ideals of character, patriotism, conduct and attainment."

With over two and a half million girls enrolled, Girl Scouts is the largest organization of women and girls in the country. The Huron Valley Council, a United Way service, currently serves over 17,000 girls each year.

LaLeche League readies sessions

Kristina Dawson, the mother of two breastfed children, will lead the discussion in the upcoming LaLeche League Meeting series.

The sessions are designed to acquaint mothers and prospective mothers with accurate, helpful and medically approved information on nursing their babies. All meetings begin promptly at 7:30 p.m. and are followed by an informal discussion period and light refreshments and are usually completed by 9:30 p.m.

"The Advantage of Breastfeeding to Mother and Baby" is the first topic and will be held at 7:30 p.m. July 20 at the Dawson home at 155 E. Columbia Ave., Belleville, at the corner of Madelon Street.

Try these suggestions

Keep your lawn, garden in shape this July

Home & Garden

Homeowners' lawn and garden will come through July in good shape with a little help and these tips from Cooperative Extension specialists at Michigan State University:

— During dry periods, water trees and shrubs thoroughly, especially newly planted ones. Grass, flowers and vegetables should be watered once a week so the soil is wet to a depth of at least six inches. Tomatoes, peppers, eggplant and summer squash should not be allowed to suffer from excessive dryness. This makes them more likely to develop blossom end rot. Keeping soil moisture from fluctuating drastically is the best defense against that problem.

— Transplant cabbage, cauliflower and broccoli, and seed lettuce, onions, radishes, beans, beets, cole crops and spinach.

— Mulch around tomato and pepper plants to keep the fruit clean and to help regulate soil moisture.

— Sidedress vegetables with nitrogen at one pound per 1,000 square feet. Do not fertilize tomatoes, peppers, eggplant or summer squash until they have set a few fruit. Excess nitrogen before fruit set will result in luxurious foliage but little fruit.

— Keep beans and cucumbers producing through the summer by harvesting the fruit as soon as it ripens.

— Spray tomato plants with Maneb, Zineb, captan or an all-purpose garden fungicide to control early and late blight and anthracnose.

— Check tomatoes for aphids, hornworms, slugs and cutworms. Pick hornworms off by hand and destroy them. Spray with malathion to control aphids. Control slugs by cultural means — remove mulch in which slugs hide during the day or make slug traps from boards. Slugs will congregate in the cool dampness beneath a board and you can destroy them. They also will be attracted to a saucer of beer placed in the garden at night. Cutworm control is difficult after plants are set in the garden. Sevin or malathion applied at the bases of the plants will help.

— Prune lateral tomato suckers this month.

— Use an all-purpose insect spray such as malathion or methoxychlor to control aphids that spread mosaic on cucumbers and melons.

— Continue to spray apple trees with an all-purpose fruit spray every seven to 10 days. Spray peaches, pears, cherries and plums every two weeks.

— Space strawberry runners eight inches apart in the row and keep rows 15 inches wide. Control weeds.

— If seeding a new lawn or renovating an old one is in your plans for fall, now is the time to begin preparing the soil and eliminating perennial weeds such as bentgrass, quackgrass and tall fescue. Do not use broadleaf weed killers containing silvex when the temperature is more than 75-80 degrees F. They will damage the turf. Be careful, too, if using 2,4-D. It can harm many landscape plants and garden crops, especially tomatoes and grapes. If using Dicamba, do not apply near shrubs or trees.

— If warmer weather activates dollar spot, brown patch, Pythium blight or powdery mildew on your lawn; treat it with a turf fungicide. July also is the time to take action against Fusarium blight.

— If you have Zoysia grass in your lawn and want to get rid of it, you must kill and remove the sod. Zoysia has underground rhizomes as well as aboveground stolons and will regenerate from the belowground parts unless they are killed with a systemic herbicide before the sod is lifted.

— Reduce old scars of Fusarium blight in lawns by frequent (every two weeks) light applications of nitrogen. Water often and thoroughly.

— During July and August, raise the mowing height of shaded lawns about an inch to lessen the stress on the grass plants.

— Keep your lawn mower sharp. Dull blades tear the grass instead of cutting it, causing reduced vigor and poor turf quality.

— Warm, dry weather probably will cause dying out of annual bluegrass in lawn areas.

— Continue a disease and insect control program for roses.

— Remove faded rose flowers just before the petals begin to fall. Cut the stems back to just above a node bearing a leaf with five leaflets.

— Stop fertilizing roses and other landscape plants after the end of July.

— Chrysanthemums, nasturtiums, roses and other flowers may be infested with aphids. Spray with malathion.

— To control mildew on mums, dahlias, delphiniums, phlox, zinnias, honeysuckle, ivy, lilacs and privet, apply sulphur, Karathane, Pirron, benomyl or Actidione PM from now through September at 2- to 4-week intervals.

— Mulch shrubs and flower borders.

— Dig, divide and replant iris after they have finished blooming, if this has not been done for five to six years.

— Divide Oriental poppies and bleeding hearts after the foliage dies down.

— To promote new growth, prune climbing roses after they've finished blooming.

— Sow seeds of perennials such as artemisia, lupine, salvia, anemone and asters.

— Stop pinching chrysanthemums after July 15.

— Cut back poinsettia plants to make them grow bushier. Use cuttings to start new plants to bloom by Christmas.

— Cut back the strong shoots of wisteria to encourage flowering next year.

— Apply a summer mulch around rose bushes.

— If dahlias are suffering from stem rot, transplant them into well drained soil and treat with captan. Pinch back and tie the shoots as needed.

— Take cuttings from chrysanthemums and carnations now for blooms in the fall and winter.

Canning Know your needs

Planning on canning this year? Then really plan ahead.

Home canning enthusiasts should know how much food their families can use within a reasonable time and how much fresh produce must be grown, or on hand, to meet those needs.

To help plan more accurately, food and nutrition specialists at Michigan State University have come up with a chart of commonly canned fruits and vegetables.

For apples, one bushel, or 48 pounds with three medium apples equaling one pound, are needed to can between 16 and 20 quarts of fruit. The amount needed per quart is 2½ to three pounds.

That bushel of apples also will yield between 15 and 18 quarts of applesauce, with between 2½ and 3½ pounds of fruit needed per quart.

One lug, or 22 pounds, of apricots will yield between seven and 11 quarts of processed fruit, with two to 2½ pounds needed per quart.

Twenty-four quarts of berries when canned will supply 12 to 18 quarts, with between 1½ and three pounds needed per quart. And 56 pounds, or one bushel, of cherries, when canned will yield 22 to 32 quarts of processed fruit, with from two to 2½ pounds of cherries needed per quart.

One bushel of peaches—48 pounds—will supply 18 to 24 quarts of canned fruit, with two to three pounds needed for each quart. Canners should remember that four medium peaches equal one pound.

Fifty pounds—one bushel—of pears will supply 20 to 25 quarts of processed food with three medium pears equaling one pound. From two to three pounds of fruit are needed per quart.

With four medium tomatoes equaling one pound, one bushel—53 pounds—will provide 15 to 20 quarts. However, 2½ to 3½ pounds of fruit are needed to fill each quart.

For tomato juice, that bushel of fruit will produce 12 to 16 quarts, with three to 3½ pounds of fruit needed per quart.

Thirty-two pounds—one bushel—of lima beans in their pods will cook up to six to 10 pounds of canned vegetable, with three to five pounds needed per quart.

Snap beans by the bushel—30 pounds—will supply 12 to 20 quarts of food, with the amount needed per quart ranging from 1½ to 2½ pounds.

Beets, minus their tops, will supply 15 to 24 quarts per bushel, a 2- to 3½-pound per quart figure, while sweet corn by the bushel—35 pounds with husks—will supply six to 10 quarts of whole kernel food. The amount needed for each quart is three to six pounds of corn.

One bushel—30 pounds—of peas in the pod will fill five to 10 quarts, with three to six pounds of vegetable required for each quart, and greens, such as spinach, by the bushel—18 pounds—will supply three to eight quarts of canned food. Two to six pounds of the greens are needed per quart.

For summer squash, canners will find that one bushel—40 pounds—will fill 10 to 20 quarts, with two to four pounds required for each quart.

Home canners should remember that the amount needed to make one quart varies, depending on quality, condition, maturity, variety and size of the pieces being canned.

Give houseplants a vacation

Most houseplants — except African violets — can be set outdoors after Memorial Day. But, according to Michigan State University horticulturist Dave Sanford, the benefits may not be worth the risks.

"When placed outdoors, houseplants tend to grow vigorously and may double in size," he said. "However, you run the risk of bug infestation and storm damage to the plants."

Whether you move plants outdoors should depend on how well they're doing inside.

"If a plant is doing very well inside, leave it there," Sanford advised. "The fact that it is doing well means that it's getting what it needs where it is."

On the other hand, a plant that is doing poorly may benefit greatly from a summer vacation outdoors.

Prepare a plant to go outside by cutting it back or by transplanting it into a larger container to give it room to grow. Try not to damage the root system during transplanting. If the roots are damaged, give the plant a week or so indoors to recover before setting it out.

"When you move plants outdoors, place them where they will not receive direct afternoon sunlight," Sanford says. Houseplants get sunburned easily. Pick a shady, sheltered spot for them. Even in the shade, plants generally will get more light outdoors than indoors in a sunny window. Most will thrive because of the increased light.

For the first few days, set plants outside only for a couple of hours. This will give them time to adjust somewhat to outdoor conditions.

"When you're ready to set them out to stay, consider burying the pots up to the rim in the soil," Sanford said. "This will keep them from drying out too rapidly and will help protect them from being blown over and damaged. They still should be watered daily and taken inside if severe weather conditions are forecast."

Minimize insect problems by setting plants away from flower beds or vegetables that may attract insects. As a preventive, Sanford recommended spraying with a general purpose household insecticide every two weeks. Sprays are most effective if used in early morning on calm days.

"Washing the leaves regularly with warm water also will discourage insects and it will help you keep aware of your plants' condition," he added.

Because plants will be growing rapidly while they're outdoors, they need more fertilizer than they need under indoor conditions. Sanford cautioned against over-fertilizing, however.

When you bring plants inside at the end of August, check them closely for insects. Isolate infested plants from insect-free ones and treat insect problems at once.

"Don't be surprised if your plants lose a few leaves during the first couple weeks indoors again," Sanford said. "Leaf drop often occurs as plants adjust from high light to low light."

Avoid accidents with lawnmowers

Power lawnmower accidents injure about 55,000 people every year, and to avoid being one of this year's statistics, try following these safety tips:— Take time before starting to mow to look over the operating manual. Check the fuel level and fill the tank, if necessary. Clear the mowing area of sticks, stones, trash or other objects that could clog the mower or be thrown by the blades. Make sure shields and other safety devices are in place and working as they're supposed to.

— Wear sturdy shoes, preferably those with metal toe caps and reinforced soles. Thongs, sandals or bare feet are fine for the beach, but a definite hazard around a power mower.

— Keep hands and feet away from moving parts. If blades become clogged, shut the mower off before trying to unclog it or make any other adjustments.

— Never leave a power mower running unattended. If you must walk away from it, make sure it cannot roll. If you will be out of sight of the mower, turn it off. Remove the ignition key, if the mower has one; unplug the cord on electric mowers or disconnect the spark plug wire to make it inoperable until you return. Or take it with you so you can keep an eye on it.

— Objects picked up and thrown by lawn mower blades can injure or even kill, so be sure children and other bystanders stay away from the mowing area.

— Watch out for obstructions or hidden hazards like holes, stumps, roots or drain pipes. Also be on the alert for guy wires, clothes lines, low hanging tree branches and other overhead hazards.

— Take extra care when mowing slopes. If using a walking mower, mow across the slope to eliminate the danger of slipping and putting a foot into the mower blades. With a riding mower, mow up and down the slope to avoid tipping and over-turning sideways.

— With a riding mower, there always is the temptation to take on passengers. But children easily can squirm out of a one-armed hold and slip under wheels or whirling blades.

— Always look behind you before backing up, in case small children or pets have come into the area. Turn corners slowly to prevent over-turning, and avoid mowing near ditches, drop-offs or steep slopes.

Beware of bugs in home gardens

Gardeners, beware! Bugs are on the move.

From now until the first frost, home vegetable gardens are likely to be invaded by a number of serious insect pests. According to Don Cress, extension entomologist at Michigan State University, gardeners should be on the lookout in July for aphids, corn borers, cabbage worms, slugs and flea beetles.

Aphids are small, soft-bodied insects that feed on plant juices sucked from leaves and stems. They usually feed from the undersides of leaves. Unless you check plants closely, you may not realize you have them until their population is huge.

Because aphids at this time of year are all born female, populations can build up to unbelievably high numbers very rapidly. It takes only one aphid to start a colony that can do a lot of damage in a short period of time, Cress said.

Aphids commonly feed on cabbage, cucumbers, corn, beans, tomatoes and peppers, and most garden crops are susceptible to at least one species of aphid.

Feeding by large numbers of aphids can reduce plant vigor and decrease yields, Cress said. Many aphids also transmit viruses that cause plant diseases. These may further reduce yield or even kill the plant.

Inspect plants closely and often, paying particular attention to the undersides of the leaves, Cress advises. If aphids are present, control with malathion or diazinon applied to the undersides of the leaves.

The larva of the European corn borer is a small, light brown caterpillar. It bores into an ear of corn through the side of the ear or from the stalk end and feeds on the young, sweet kernels. The same worm enters peppers around the edge of the cap that fastens the pepper to the plant.

Controls are used to keep the worm out of the edible part of the plant, Cress said. Once it is inside, it is too late.

For both corn and peppers, the recommended chemical control is a combination of Sevin and diazinon sprayed on the undersides of the leaves as well as on the ears and fruits.

At this time of year, little green caterpillars on cabbage, cauliflower, broccoli and other cole crops probably are the larvae of the imported cabbage worm butterfly, Cress said. The velvety green worms chew large holes in the leaves of these crops and can destroy whole fields in a short time.

In mid-August, the imported cabbage worm will be joined by the cabbage looper, a light green worm with a white stripe down each side. It gets its name from its looping, inchworm motion across a leaf.

Controls for cabbage worms include Sevin, diazinon, malathion or Bacillus thuringiensis, a bacterial disease of caterpillars that is sold under the trade names Biotrol, Dipel and Thuricide. It is toxic only to the worms, it will not harm other insects or humans.

Flea beetles are tiny, usually black insects about one-eighth inch long. They are very active and jump from one leaf to another to feed. They eat small holes in plant foliage, giving the leaves the appearance of having been shot with a shotgun.

Control flea beetles with malathion or diazinon as soon as you see the damage, Cress said. Always read and follow label directions when applying any chemical to your garden, he urged.

Harris urges action on shoreline study

Wayne County Commissioner Edgar L. Harris has urged prompt government action on a task force report that recommends great recreation, housing, commercial and industrial opportunities along the shoreline of 13 local communities that make up the 37.5 mile Wayne County riverfront.

Harris emphasized, that the economic fallout of those proposals would bring significant benefits — including jobs and millions in tax revenue — to inland county communities, like Dearborn, Livonia and Hamtramck, as well.

Harris (D-Romulus), along with Gov. William Milliken and other officials, unveiled the recommendations of the Interagency Task Force for Detroit-Wayne County Riverfront Development at a recent news conference.

The 44-member task force was forced two years ago to devise an overall plan for future development of the valuable waterfront property. Members include state, county and city officials and business leaders.

The task force recommended that the low-funded Detroit-Wayne County Port Commission be replaced with a new Port Authority financed with state, county and City of Detroit funds.

It also said Detroit could become one of the great seaports of the world if it had tri-government funding, adequate staff, a new terminal that could handle boat, truck and rail traffic and government cooperation to promote the port and urge competitive freight rates.

Detroit currently has five privately operated ocean terminals. "Since 1932, the responsibility of monitoring port activity has rested with Wayne County government — and Wayne County taxpayers," Harris said. It's been obvious to all of us that the port was a reservoir of untapped economic potential that could open up new jobs and business opportunities throughout the entire state.

"But the county budget, strained by other priorities, didn't have the dollars to undertake major marketing campaigns or build modern port facilities."

As a county representative on the task force, Harris supported the creation of a new semi-autonomous Detroit-Wayne County Port Authority which "could mean an additional $500 million in annual income benefits for Wayne County — and 5,000 new jobs by 1985."

At present, the total economic benefit to Wayne County from industries located along the riverfront is tagged at $822 million.

"Our port activity is only 50 percent of what it could be despite the fact that right in our own backyard, the counties of Wayne, Okaland and Macomb have been ranked No. 1 in the nation for exporting manufactured products," Harris said.

He added that one solution to capture more world trade is to build a modern, container-oriented port terminal that would require an initial public investment of $35 million.

"The terminal would be leased to private port operators and would require some public subsidy in the early stages," he said. "Later it would become self-supporting while returning considerable millions in income, taxes and business growth."

State Sen. Dennis Hertel of Detroit will hold public hearings in Michigan port districts this summer to get a community viewpoint on port development. He said he will introduce legislation this fall that would allow the creation of port authorities like the one mentioned for Detroit which cannot be set up under existing law.

Harris pointed out that much of the study focused on the highly-industrialized downriver waterfront corridor, and also includes the banks of the Rouge River upstream to the Ford Motor Co. in Dearborn, the islands of Grosse Ile and those small undeveloped islands located off Pte. Mouillee at the southernmost tip of Wayne County.

Gov. Milliken has pledged the support of the state in developing the Wayne County riverfront.

TAXES ARE THE ISSUES

James R. Bruce is a candidate for State Representative for the 38th District as a democrat. Outlined below, is the record of his opponent and of J. Bruce's position on the same issues.

Challenging Candidate James. R. Bruce

Opposes any increase in the State income tax and supported a petition drive to limit our State income tax to the present rate, with voter approval needed for any increase.

+++

State and Federal taxes on gasoline accounts for approximately 30 percent of the total cost of our gas price. Driving a car is a necessity and Bruce opposes any further increases, and would use the already healthy highway fund, along with matching Federal funds, for new roads and maintenance.

+++

Bruce will introduce and support legislation to go back to the original group of business taxes that would give relief to the small businesses and place the burden on the large corporations. This would help eliminate the need for cuts in our school program and the need for tax increases.

Bruce believes that a commitment to the voters of his district is inviolate and should be maintained firmly, and is committed to bringing the government back to the people.

Bruce does not believe that cross-district bussing improves the quality of education, and only causes traumas and problems for children of either race. He firmly opposes cross-district bussing as a means of providing quality education.

We ask you, the voter, to carefully evaluate the record of our present State Representative and the position of the challenger James Bruce, on the issues above, and support a man that will initiate and vote for legislation that the voters of the 38th district will want and need.

VOTE AUGUST 3, 1976
VOTE FOR JAMES R. BRUCE
STATE REPRESENTATIVE 38th DISTRICT DEMOCRAT

Present Office Holder Edward Mahalak

Voted to increase the State income tax from 2.6 percent on two occasions to the present rate of 4.6 percent. Failed to support the petition drive to limit the State income tax to the present rate without voter approval.

+++

Voted to increase our gasoline tax by 2c per gallon.

Voted for the single purpose business tax that placed an unfair burden on the small businessman and favored big business such as G.M.C. This vote cost our school districts over 31 million dollars and has forced our school boards to ask for millage increases.

Voted to make permanent a 1.3 percent increase in our State income tax after the politicians promised us this was to be a temporary tax.

+++

Voted no on anti-bussing legislation that would ask Congress to pass an amendment to our constitution to prohibit cross-district bussing of our children. This vote shows that Mahalak does not oppose cross-district bussing.

Museum exhibit explores life in Revolution

Life at the time of the American Revolution is expressed in the participants' own words in one of the nation's major Bicentennial exhibitions through Jan. 2, 1977 at Henry Ford Museum in Dearborn.

Revealing for the first time a major unpublished collection of Revolutionary period diaries, cartoons, letters, maps and broadsides, "The Struggle and the Glory" is of a size and scope that is unprecedented at this world-famous museum of Americana.

In addition to the written materials, a profusion of original weapons, furniture, tools, lamps, dry goods, cookware, transportation devices and other material necessities that were in use during the Revolution depict life in the colonies from 1755 to 1789. Numerous displays range from household settings of furniture and accessories used by colonial families to a 7-screen theater-in-the-round where visitors are encircled by the color and noise of Revolutionary battles.

The words of America's founders accompany visitors throughout a walk through the Revolution that starts with the outbreak of the French and Indian War and goes on to acquaint the visitor with colonial land disputes, the people, the Revolutionary War and the new nation. First-hand accounts by Washington, Hancock, Burgoyne, Arnold, Adams, Wayne and others who were actually there give an authenticity to this expression of the Revolution.

In the exhibit's first section a printer operates an 18th century press. He prints French and Indian War "Call to Arms" recruiting broadsides that are given to the exhibit's visitors. This section of "The Struggle and the Glory" presents Britain's defeat of France in a conflict over land use. It also prepares visitors for a close look at colonial settlers.

Entertainment

The second section dramatizes the colonists' ethnic diversity and regional differences. Shop windows display the imported wares that colonists depended on prior to the Revolution.

By coming into close contact with the colonists' daily lives, visitors feel the strong and increasingly distasteful presence of official England in the colonies. Continuing the walk through the Revolution, the crackle of drums and exploding muskets sets the mood for stronger expressions of conflict. Reactions to trade restrictions that created monopolies and threatened colonial businesses, increasing taxes and the intrusion of British soldiers who were sent to the colonies to enforce laws, are expressed boldly in words and cartoons that were shaped 200 years ago by colonial pens.

The stark reality of a new American nation severed from and at war with England greets the visitor as he crosses a plank road, passes a liberty pole and enters the major section of "The Struggle and the Glory" dealing with the war itself.

One walks amidst fiery written exchanges between John Hancock and Maj. Gen. Anthony St. Clair. Visitors have the feeling of "looking over the shoulder" of John Jay as he pens a plea for provisions.

The problems of the Revolution are everywhere. Only a third of the colonists support the break from England. Nothing short of a draft is going to save America, Anthony Wayne warned his countrymen. Washington admonished Col. Theodorick Bland "don't resign!"

All around are weapons, provisions, musical and navigational instruments, uniforms and other equipment of the Revolutionary War. The actual bed that George Washington used during Revolutionary campaigns is set up along with his camp chest as if awaiting his use. Ahead a dramatic theater-in-the-round brings visitors into the battles of the Revolution. The final major battle of the Revolution at Yorktown is presented on film in another theater.

Institute to view the skies

In honor of summer and summer vacations, Cranbrook Institute of Science planetarium demonstrations will be increased to seven days a week now through August.

"Bicentennial Skies," the July and August topic, will be presented at 2 and 3 p.m. Mondays through Fridays, as well as during the regular schedule of 4 p.m. Wednesdays, 2, 3, 4 and 7:30 p.m. Saturdays, and 2, 3 and 4 p.m. Sundays.

On the domed ceiling in the recently renovated planetarium, the stars and planets and their changes over the last 200 years will be projected and explained. Children under five are not admitted.

Planetarium demonstrations are free with museum admission, which costs $2.25 for adults and $1.25 for students and senior citizens.

Cranbrook Institute of Science is located at 500 Lone Pine Road.

The exhibition concludes with a thoughtful look at the new nation. In observing the way colonists lived, visitors see less British influence. A new American nationalism is exemplified by a bowl emblazoned with the message "Don't let our constitution be frustrated."

Problems of finances, prisoners of war and foreign opinion are threads of concern running through the post-Revolutionary letters that are on exhibit.

During Bicentennial month

Party atmosphere pervades in Michigan

A party atmosphere will indeed reign throughout Michigan during July, according to the Travel Bureau of the Michigan Department of Commerce. Annual favorites as well as a multitude of "red, white, and blue" events provide unlimited festivities that will more than do justice to the nation's 200th birthday month.

If you want to shed your troubles, jot them down on a piece of paper and watch them go up in smoke at the "Burning of the Boog" at the Alpenfest at Gaylord now through Saturday. The ceremony is one of the delightful Swiss legends brought to life during this festival.

The Chesaning Showboat will dock at Showboat Park in Chesaning, this week, with a boat load of entertainment and top stars. Hearty appetites will find delicious satisfaction tomorrow at the annual Chicken Broil at the Athletic Field in Manchester and if you're a music, art and flower fan, try the "Up In Central Park" festivities in Grand Haven Friday and Saturday. Horse pulling contests, canoe races, softball games and greased pig races will all be included in the Sportsman's Festival at St. Charles, Friday through Sunday. At the Hootin-Hankenany in Houghton and Hancock, Friday through July 25, you'll find a little bit of everything: Venetian boat parade, bugle corps, heritage home tours, water ski shows and much, much more, including the International Frisbee Tournament at Houghton Saturday and Sunday.

Log rolling is an old time skill employed by lumberjacks on the rivers and mill ponds of Michigan during one of its most colorful periods. And it will be one of the major highlights of the 17th Annual Great Lakes Forestry Exposition at Mio, July 22-24.

Skimming some of the other offerings during the month there's the Cheese Festival at Pinconning, July 22-24; Doe-Wah-Jack Summer Festival at Dowagiac, July 22-25; Polish Festival Days at Bronson, July 29-31; the Potato Festival at

Munger, July 29-Aug. 1; Southwest Michigan Indian Pow Wow in the Amphitheater at Jones, July 31-Aug. 1; and the Coast Guard Festival at Grand Haven, July 31-Aug. 1. Whatever you enjoy in the way of recreational activity and festive events, you'll find it

Social planned

Members of the Romulus Horsemen's Association are planning an old-fashioned pie social and get acquainted session for next Wednesday.

Members of the organization will bring one pie per family for the event, to be held at 7:30 p.m. in the Community Room of the Romulus City Hall, located at 11111 S. Wayne Road.

The association will provide table settings and beverages for the gathering.

Recent photographs of club activities, members' horses and mementos are needed.

For more information contact Barbara Schultz at 941-1670.

Musical comedy joins fest lineup

The Hilberry Summer Theatre is presenting Eleanor and Ray Harder's "Sacramento Fifty Miles." The production, a comedy with songs about an unusual quartet of animals, will be presented on the theater's main stage at 10:30 a.m. by the Hilberry Summer Festival Company.

Based on the children's fairy tale of "The Bremen Town Musicians", written by the Brothers Grimm more than 200 years ago, the location has been moved from Germany to the American West.

The story is about four animals — a dog, burro, cat and rooster — who run away to Sacramento with the dream of becoming the town musicians. On the way to the city they run into thieving gold prospectors, who cause a great deal of trouble before the animals are able to outwit them.

The Hilberry cast of the production will include Michael Cullen as Darby the dog, Harper Jane McAdoo as Molly the burro, Deborah Eckols as Contessa the cat and Michael Tylo as Beauegard the rooster. Also in the cast will be Michael Rothaar as Rocky, the cantankerous old prospector, and Donald W. Dailey as his sidekick, Lodestone.

Tickets for the play cost $1.25 and $1 prices are available for groups of 10 or more persons. They are on sale at the theater box office in the lobby of the Hilberry Theater.

The summer festival's adult plays will begin July 7 with "Black Girl" and "Owl Killer" downstairs in the Hilberry Studio. The Tony-award winning musical "Company" will open July 8 in the theater proper. Also slated for the summer are Edward Albee's "Seascape", which opens July 28 at the Studio, and Neil Simon's "The Good Docot", slated for July 30 at the Hilberry.

Complete ticket information, season subscriptions and the performance schedule are available from the box office or by calling 577-2972.

Parade fun

The weather was threatening at times, and at one point Mother Nature did rain on the parade, but the queens kept smiling and waving and the people kept watching as Belleville and Van Buren Township observed our nation's 200th birthday in style. The parade participants scooped at the somewhat foul weather conditions to march, ride and have fun along the parade route that stretched from Beck to Belleville roads along Ecorse Road. —ANP photos.

11d. Motion by Oakley, supported by Martin, to adopt Resolution 76-512, opposing HB6085, the "Freedom of Information Act".

RESOLUTION 76-512
WHEREAS: HB6085, as introduced by Representative Perry Bullard, Chairman of the House Committee on Civil Rights, has been tabbed the Freedom of Information Act and purports to provide easy access to municipal records by the public, and,
WHEREAS: Existing state statutes currently provide complete access to municipal records by the public, the City of Romulus is bewildered at the thought of writing new legislation to cover rights of the public which have long been established, and,
WHEREAS: House Bill 6085 details a procedure which would be horrendously complicated and would most likely assure that the average member of the public would be denied access to public records because of his inability to comprehend and/or comply with the maze of guidelines set forth in HB6085, and,
WHEREAS: The public would be required to shoulder the financial responsibility created by an attempt by local government to administer the provisions set forth in HB6085, but they would receive disproportionate service for the financial impositions, and,
WHEREAS: Local governments throughout the State of Michigan are facing deficit budgets, short workweeks and cutbacks in service, the City of Romulus could not in good faith impose additional financial burdens for a program which would deliver, if operated at maximum efficiency, absolutely no improvement in service.

NOW, THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED: That the City Council of the City of Romulus does herewith implore, if not demand, that the legislature of the State of Michigan proceed prudently in its review of HB6085, weighing very carefully the financial dilemmas communities are facing statewide against the mythical benefits purported to be derived by the adoption of HB6085.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED: That, if in the wisdom of the State Legislature, it is determined that there is any value whatsoever in HB6085, that the entire funding for its implementation be provided by the state and included in the text of the bill when adopted.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED: That the City Council of the City of Romulus does herewith implore all communities in the State of Michigan to contact their state representatives to express their abhorrence and to demand their certain members of State government to intensify the presently eroding of local officials to deal with local problems and to demand their rejection of HB6085.

BE IT FINALLY RESOLVED: That copies of this resolution be forwarded to Governor William Milliken, Representative Edward Mahalak, Senator William Faust, and all surrounding communities in Wayne County. Roll call vote showing: Ayes - Raspberry, Oakley, Martin, McAnally, Lee, Block, Canejo. Nays - None. Motion carried unanimously.

76-513.

Payable to Robert Reese. is adjusted from $12,228 to $8,728. Adjusted total of City Warrant No. 199 is $363,153.58. Roll call vote showing: Ayes - Raspberry, Martin, Oakley, McAnally, Lee, Canejo. Nays - McAnally, Lee. Motion carried.

76-514.

Motion by Martin, supported by Oakley, that the meeting be adjourned. Roll Call vote showing: Ayes - Raspberry, Oakley, Martin, McAnally, Lee, Block, Canejo. Nays - None. Motion carried unanimously.
Respectfully submitted,
Leonard J. Folmar, Clerk
City of Romulus.

County nets honors in program excellence

The Wayne County Board of Commissioners has been honored with four more awards from the National Association of Counties (NACo) for excellence in county government programs.

Each year NACo gives the awards to deserving counties in recognition of new public service programs that are considered highly innovative and are judged to provide exceptional benefit for county citizens.

The awards were presented to the board during the NACo 41st annual convention that ended July 1 in Salt Lake City where the delegates also adopted two resolutions sponsored by Wayne County which asked for compensation for crime victims and more federal help for the unemployed.

County Board Chairman John Barr said both the awards and approval of the resolutions are "a great satisfaction because the actions indicate that not only are our programs on target, they also are very much appreciated by others who value a good effort and are looking for ways to improve their own systems for delivery of community services."

Barr emphasized that descriptions of the award-winning programs are part of a special display by Wayne County and NACo which is meant to inform other county officials across the nation about new special services that they might want to emulate.

This year the award-winning programs for Wayne County are the Consumer Protection Agency, the Juvenile Courts Improvements Program, the Senior Citizens Nutrition Project and the Office of Volunteer Programs.

Four NACo achievement awards in one year is a unique achievement for Wayne County, said Barr. He noted that in the preceding four years, the County also won awards each time for beginning its Juvenile Facilities Network, implementing the joint Detroit-Wayne County Criminal Justice System Coordinating Council, starting the County Commission on Aging and organizing the County Referral Center for the Retarded.

'...a defender with real clout...'

In winning an award this year, the Consumer Protection Agency was cited for its capacity to give the consumer "a defender with a real clout."

The agency is available free to all residents in 43 communities in the county as a division of the Prosecuting Attorney's Office with its full authority for criminal and civil prosecution.

It is geared against fraud, illegal and unethical business practices and sub-standard products and services. In its first year of operation in 1974, it handled 11,581 inquiries that resulted in more than 4,000 mediation cases.

The agency also resolved out-of-court settlements valued at more than a half million dollars, was successful in 33 criminal convictions, and is credited with an overall 75 percent success rate in behalf of consumers opposing unfair merchants.

The county Office of Volunteer Programs has saved county taxpayers more than an estimated $200,000 that would have been paid in salaries except for volunteers who donated their time and talent to agencies serving the needy.

Since its inception in 1973, the department has "professionalized" the matching of volunteers with various agency needs, placing some 200 individuals who range in age from youth to senior citizens, including high school dropouts and college professors.

Now in its third year of operation, the Senior Citizens Nutrition Program provides daily hot noon meals to nearly 1,600 elders at 23 sites in the county. Some seniors who are incapacitated are given meals delivered to their homes.

The Juvenile Court Improvements program is credited with the chief influence in a 15 percent decrease in crimes by boys on probation and a 26 percent drop among girls of the same status, according to the latest statistics from the court.

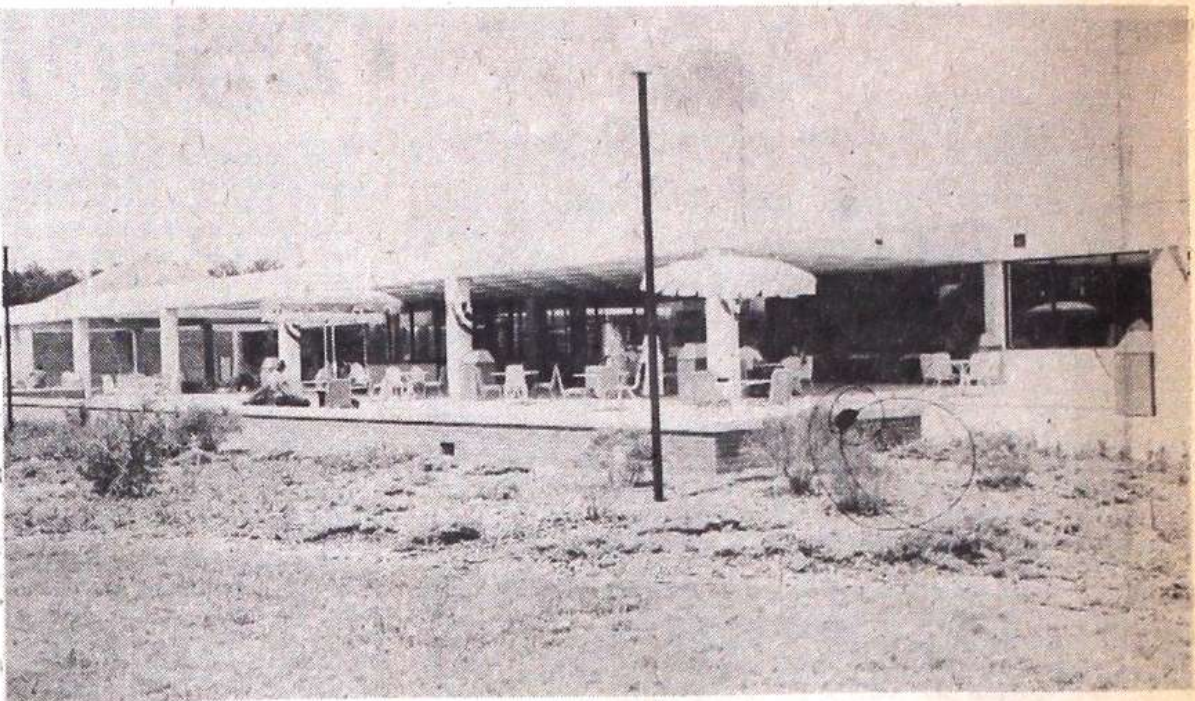

The program grew out of the old county Juvenile Facilities Network, parts of which have since evolved into the new Office of Youth Services. The rate of second arrests for juveniles was reduced by 52 percent in the first year of the new program.

Both Wayne County-sponsored resolutions adopted by the convention delegates will become part of the NACo national legislative platform that is used to lobby in Congress for federal approval of the programs.

One resolution urges the federal government to relax its restrictions on rehiring of laid-off employees of municipal governments such as Detroit and other localities in Wayne County, which are facing budget problems.

At present, U.S. Labor Department regulations prohibit the rehiring of more than 10 percent of a governmental unit's Comprehensive Employment and Training (CETA) employees who have been laid off.

The other resolution urges that police, prosecutors and courts give more attention to the rights and needs of victims and witnesses in criminal cases. It also asks the federal Law Enforcement Assistance Administration to give higher priority to victim-witness programs in their grant policies "to meet the needs of victims and witnesses and to restore public confidence in the criminal justice system".

Opening Day

Mother Nature cooperated with sunshine and warm weather and with the help of a group of youngsters from the Huron Township Recreation Program, officials of the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority had an easy time of dedicating the new facilities at Willow Creek Metropark near New Boston. The park now has an Olympic-sized swimming pool, large tot lot with a town and country theme, food service area and patio to meet the needs of people using the recreational facility. On hand for the ribbon cutting ceremony were state, local, federal and county officials, including Congressman William D. Ford, State Rep. Edward Mahalak and County Commissioner Mary Dumas.—ANP photos.

Miss Priest gains spot in honor unit

The daughter of a Belleville couple has been accepted into the fall honors program at Albion College in Albion, Mich.

Julie Priest, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Priest of Wilson Avenue, was selected on the basis of her high academic achievement and her ability to pursue independent programs.

The honors program is designed to develop both depth and breadth within a liberal arts framework, with the purpose of liberating the student from the many limitations imposed by the usual college curricula, a college spokesman said.

Also garnering honors at the collegiate level is Mary Medaugh, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Medaugh of Belleville.

Miss Medaugh was named to the dean's list at Lambuth College in Jackson, Tenn.

To be eligible for the honor roll, a student taking four or more (4-hour) courses must earn a 3.25 grade point average or better.

Detective opens his own firm

A former Los Angeles County Sheriff's detective has formed his own investigative firm in Belleville.

James Johnson, 44, the former owner of Johnson Detective and Patrol in Detroit, has located the Zenith Detective Agency in the Professional Building in Belleville.

"I see a void in the Belleville area I'd like to fill," said Johnson, who worked for six-years in Los Angeles and has been in detective work for 22 years.

Among the services Johnson advertises are plainclothes investigation, store security, employee security checks and divorce and insurance investigations.

The number for the detective agency is 699-1922.

SEMTA airs transit system

Express bus, light rail, commuter rail, rapid rail, four types of mass transit, will be discussed in-depth tomorrow evening when the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority (SEMTA) calls together citizens and local elected officials to discuss the future of public transit in the southeast Michigan region.

This citizen information meeting is the second in a series of public meetings sponsored by SEMTA during its year-long study of choices for a future public transit system.

SEMTA, a regional operating authority providing public transportation the seven counties of the southeast Michigan region, began the study early this year.

At the study's conclusion, citizens will be invited to help choose the transit system which will be st meet their travel needs 10-15 years hence.

The final transit choice could be a single mode system, such as an all-bus system, or it could be some combination of express bus, light rail, commuter rail or rapid rail.

Also on the agenda for discussion at the upcoming information meeting will be a discussion of what travel demands are expected to be generated by the people of the region 10 years from now, and a discussion of how traffic management affects public transit.

Those two questions are part of 11 issues tackled by SEMTA during the course of the transit study. Other issues to be addressed later this summer include the cost and impact of a 1985 transit system, the development of a phased implementation program for public transit, and an analysis of financing a public transit system.

These issues and others will be addressed later this summer at further public meetings and public hearings on choices for futher transit.

Following the selection of a recommended transit system for the region, SEMTA will be eligible for consideration for transit funding by the U.S. Urban Mass Transportation Administration.

The meeting will be held at 7 p.m. at the City-County Building, 2 Woodward Avenue, Detroit.

For more information on the transit study, contact Brenda Peek at SEMTA at 962-9800.

Historical Society locates museums

Western Wayne County history buffs now have help "sniffing out" museums, thanks to the Historical Society of Michigan.

The society has published a "Bicentennial Directory of Historical Museums in Michigan," listing 90 museums throughout the state.

Designed to serve as a visitor's guide, the directory lists museums by city and includes museum haours and admission fees. The directory also includes a section on special exhibits at major museums scheduled for July through December 1976.

According to Frank C. Wilhelme, director of the state historical society, the directory was compiled because of the increased interest in learning about Michigan's heritage during the Bicentennial era.

"Collectively, these museums represent a substantial part of the important effort to preserve our state's cultural heritage," Wilhelme said.

The directory was published with the assistance of the Michigan American Revolution Bicentennial Commission, the Fisher-Inslay Foundation, the Gornick Fund, the Herrick Foundation, the Kellog Foundation, the Miller Foundation, Inc., the Sage Foundation, and the Harry A. and Margaret D. Towsley Foundation.

Copies of the museum directory are available for 25 cents each from the Historical Society of Michigan, 2117 Washtenaw Avenue, Ann Arbor 48104, or by calling 769-1828. Quantities of 10 or more cost 15 cents each.

BILMAR'S SUPERMARKET

WE THINK YOU SHOULD KNOW...

...About the pickets that you see in front of our store. The meat union has called a strike because I have indicated the extreme high cost of their wage and benefit plan. At the present time, since we have only been in business a few months, we have yet to make one penny in profit. To agree to the union's demand would eventually force me to close. I would like to keep this store open in the community and provide approximately 25 jobs. My family and I have moved into Romulus and want to become sound community citizens. We would appreciate your support by crossing the picket line to enable us to keep this store in your community.

EMU signs Wayne High's Sheridan

Prep star 'likes Hurons' baseball program'

By TOM MOORADIAN
Sports Editor

Pat Sheridan, an All-State, All-Area Wayne Memorial athlete in three sports, will stay close to home base as Eastern Michigan University announced this week that it has signed the 18-year-old star to a national letter of intent.

The EMU disclosure ended speculation about where Sheridan, who recently helped Wayne reach the semi-finals of the Class A state baseball tournament, would attend college.

Sheridan has earned All-State consideration in football, basketball and baseball. However, it was the latter sport which led him to EMU, according to his father, Art Sheridan.

Sports

going to school around here, and we as well as his friends will be able to see him play."

The 18-year-old Sheridan will receive a "full-ride" scholarship. He had more than 50 collegiate offers, including many from the Big 10 schools.

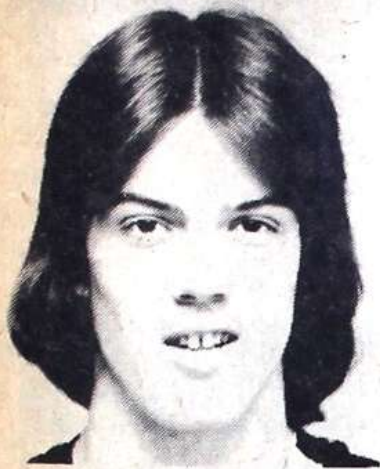

Sheridan batted better than .350 in the recently-concluded baseball campaign. He has been a starter at Wayne since his freshman year.

Pat excelled in football and basketball. He was named to the Great Lakes 8 Conference team in all three major sports.

Sheridan also is one of the few athletes to ever be selected to the All-Area contingents in all three sports.

"Pat is not only a fine athlete but an excellent student and person as well," said Bill Hawley, Wayne Memorial athletic director and head basketball coach. "He has made an excellent contribution to sports at the high school and we wish him all the success in the world at EMU."

That's right - nine days. All entries for the annual summer amateur golf classic must be in the hands of the parks and recreation departments or at the Association Newspapers' sports desk before Fri., July 23.

The 2-day tournament will be staged beginning 8 a.m., Fri. and Sat., July 31 and Aug. 1 at Fellow's Creek Golf Course, 2936 Lotz Road in Canton Township.

J & D Auto shifts into title gear

J & D Auto unleashed a 19-hit attack to overpower Burghuff's 37-0 last week as the Wayne Parks and Recreation women's softball league leader shifted into title gear.

The victory, which stretched J & D's win streak to five games, kept the title-bound leaders perfect on the season.

Scoring 24 times in the third inning, officials decided to call the game at that time because of the mismatch, giving J & D the decision.

Gay Diehl laced four hits, Irene Stockdale had three singles and a homer and Rose Boline drove in three runs for the winners.

Ginny Lou Walsh and Barb Hull collected the only hits - each singled for Burghuff's.

In other league action, the Flim Flam parlayed three home runs into a 19-8 victory over Jake's Lounge. Winning pitcher Nancy Brown gave up 11 hits, including a triple and a pair of singles to Karen Karznia and two hits each to Darlene Holsgrove and Rosie Franz.

Dee Dee York, Mary Porter and Kathy Hayes whacked homers for the Flim Flam who picked up 10 hits off of Jake's starter Mary Newton who lasted 3 and one-thirds innings and five hits off of reliever Diane Able.

Jake's bounced back to whip Jack Demmer Ford's 25-9 as Karen Karznia, Maria Miller and Darlene Holsgrove each collected two hits.

Winning pitcher Joan Able served up 10 hits, including two each to Jill MacCullum and Cathy Gody.

Debbie Reid's grand slam home run lifted Hope Care to a 19-5 victory over Mac Tools. Teammate Cheryl Madeau and Terri Richardson each had two hits off of losing hurler Michelle Gonzales.

Madeau, the winner, was tagged for three stretch singles - one each by JoAnn Hathorne, Brenda Schwartz and Michelle Gonzales.

In the only other game, Hope Care scored twice in the bottom of the fifth to eke out a 4-1 decision over Burghuff's. The losers had the edge in hits 7-5 as Lorie Bleyhart and Karen Morris each swatted two singles.

Cathy Battle's single accounted for two RBI's for the winners.

'B' leader succumbs

Upsets hit Canton

McMurray Insurance, the Division A leader, and Dearborn Fabricating, the B leader, are living precariously in their respective leagues in the Canton Township Parks and Recreation circuit.

McMurray's has a slim one-game cushion over Smith's Realty while Dearborn eked out a 10-6 victory over sixth place Deer Creek to take over the top spot last week.

Clark Block and Little Caesar's, who had been setting the pace, were upset victims and relinquished first to the newcomer. Star Furniture edged Little Caesar's 7-6 for their seventh win, but Caesar's came back to beat Clark Block 9-6.

Star Furniture surprised Little Caesar, who had a 6-3 lead going into the fifth, by picking up two runs in that inning on Tom Davis's triple, one in the sixth on Kip Kukuk's triple, and another in the seventh for the winning run as Bob Shaw drove in Jeff Tanner with a single.

Caesar's came back against arch-rival Clark Block 9-6. They jumped out to a 4-1 lead in the first. Steve Trahey tripled in two runs in the third and one in the fourth to pull within one, but Caesar's broke loose with one run in the fifth as Trahey singled in Gary Truskowski, who had singled, and three runs in the sixth capped by Charles Jaskolski's single for the winning run.

By Gordon Charles

Ever hear of the "West Virginia Polish blue fox?" Neither did a lot of other people.

But one fellow who did, a member of the anti-trapping organization, Defenders of Animal Rights, now wishes he had done a little more homework on the subject.

James R. Kovic ended up getting his own leg pulled when he testified before a legislative committee in Washington, D. C. against the evils of trapping wild animals.

Kovic indignantly referred the lawmakers to an issue of the Maryland Fur Trappers' newsletter and called it "a classic example of how a trapper does not have control over what goes into his trap." He told how one trapper "caught a Polish blue fox, a rare specimen and believed to be the first of its kind trapped in this state."

"The fox," Kovic angrily declared, "is known for its habit of chewing off not one but three of its feet, while remaining firmly caught in the trap!"

Roars of laughter from the 75 trappers and farmers made Kovic realize something was wrong.

It was explained by Paul Chaney, secretary of the Maryland trapper's group. "That shows how much these city folk now about this issue," he said. "That fox does not exist. Some trapper once found a scroungy possum run over by a car, attached a fox tail to it and donated it to a fur dealer where it was put up on the wall."

Under the trophy, a tag read: "West Virginia Polish Blue Fox," said Chaney as Kovic's face turned scarlet with embarrassment. "We put it in our newsletter as a joke," Chaney continued. "It was just one of those foolish Polish jokes." The animal is so rare, he told the Committee on Judicial Proceedings, that "it doesn't exist at all."

While that particular case had humorous aspects, the entire issue of anti-trapping drives is no laughing matter. Across the United States at least 100 different organizations are aiming at a ban on all trapping. Most citizens do not trap and support for the trappers is rather sparse in most areas.

This is a dangerous attitude for sportmen to take. It was best explained by an Oklahoma hunter "for what it really is ... an effort by the anti-hunt groups nationwide to eliminate all forms of sport hunting by taking away equipment used for taking wildlife. First the trap, then the bow and arrow, the hand gun, the rifle and ultimately the shotgun."

Anti-trapping legislation, therefore, should be considered as part of the anti-gun and anti-hunting action plotted by well-organized national groups.

Nor can fishermen remain complacent. The "anti" groups have already declared that once traps, bows and firearms are outlawed by legislatures or Congress, sport fishing will be next. They believe that the use of a hook to catch a fish is "cruel" and must be stopped!

Dearborn Fabricating had an easy time with Deer Creek, 10-6, as Gordie Hicke had two singles and a double, and Rick Black belted a single, double and home run. Black has been the big gun for Fab this year.

On other action, Meijer's picked up its first win of the year, beating K-Mart 17-8, batting around in the second and fourth innings.

Ron Stepek had three singles and Marshall Agge had four hits for the winners.

This week's big game in the B Division pits Clark Block and

Moeller rips Mobil

A split last week cost Mobil Lounge sole possession of first place and may be the Canton Parks and Recreation's women's softball championship.

Co-leader Moeller came up with two big victories including a 11-3 victory over Mobil Lounge which forced the deadlock.

It was the first time in two years that Moeller had beaten its arch-rivals.

Going into the final two games tied for first place, the co-leaders don't play each other again, but Meijer's, one game back in second place, can be "the spoiler" as it clashes with each team and could take all the marbles.

Moeller beat Mobil Lounge for the first time in two years, 11-3, and then squeaked by Meijer's 18-15 in 8 innings in one of the most exciting game of the year.

Meijer's jumped out on top in the second inning 7-2, but Moeller came back with five runs in the third as Debbie Schmitt and Terry Oelke both homered.

Moeller picked up two more in the fourth to go ahead 8-7, but Meijer's scored two runs in the bottom of the fifth as Barb Gruen drove in both runs with a single.

Meijer's tied it 10-10 in the bottom of the sixth as Jan Gaylord singled home Betty Bird, who had doubled.

With the bases-loaded and the winning run on third, Barb Gruen lined a sharp drive into left center field for what appeared to be the game winning hit, but June Beachum threw to second for the forceout, getting Martha Potter by a hair to save the game.

Moeller appeared to have put it away in the seventh, as they picked up five runs on five hits, including a 3-run triple by Pam Nanny.

But the stubborn Meijer's came back with five of their own, as Shelly Arner led off with a long home-run, Betty Bird doubled, Jan Gaylord singled, and Trudy Watkins drove them both in with a triple. Vicky McCullen drove her in with a single for the tying run.

Moeller came up with the winning run in the eighth as darkness set in. Pam Nanny drove in two runs with her sixth hit of the game in six trips.

Mobil Lounge knocked off winless College Park 10-8 as it held off a seven run sixth inning by College Park. Carol Smith had two home runs and a double, and Dianne Merritt had a home run and a single for the winners.

In other action, College Park lost to Meijer's 10-0 for their seventh loss against no victories for the year, but they haven't given up yet as they still show more spirit than some of the winners. Moeller beat Mobil Lounge 11-3 in the other game.

The four-man softball team, anchored by the irrepressible Eddie Feigner, will go against the Waltz All-Stars.

The pre-game activities include a "home Run Derby", beginning at 7 p.m. There is a $1 entry fee, and a trophy for the winner.

Pre-game tickets are $2 and $1 for adults and children, respectively. At the gate it will cost fans 50 cents more to see the game.

Midas nearing title

Westlanders are 'perfect' in league

Midas Muffler is moving out of reach of Studio Lounge in the battle for the Westland Parks and Recreation women's softball crown. Scoring an 8-2 victory over Lynn's Country Bar, Midas picked up its eighth win of the campaign to remain perfect in the league.

Meanwhile, challenger Studio Lounge is one notch down (6-1) and must get some help in order to catch the front-running Midas contingent. Mida's Madeline Tracht tossed a seven-hitter, struck out one and walked two in posting the win over Lynn's. She received ample hitting support from Nancy Samkowiak who slapped a triple and single and went 2 for 4 for the day.

Miss Tracht helped her cause with a perfect three for three at the plate.

Karen Bookins, the losing pitcher, got two of the seven hits her teammates had off of Tracht. Vickie Marshall also laced two singles for the losers.

Johnny's Shell exploded for seven runs in the third inning to stop Town & Country Dodge 9-3 in their second meeting of the season.

In a game cut short by rain, Johnny's put to good use 15 hits off of loser Kathy Katalenic who gave up five RBI's and a homer to Pat Nance. Jeanine Croskey also connected for two of Johnny's hits.

In the only other game, fifth place Hudson's of Westland buried Wayne County General under a barrage of 21 hits and a 20-1 score.

Michelle McGinty provided the winners with a home run and a pair of singles which were good for two runs batted in while Keri Metzger came through with a triple and homer for six RBI's. Audrey Bennett picked up four singles for the winners as did Sue Sheridan.

Wayne County scored in the first inning against winning pitcher Elaine Golden who then proceeded to gather "goose eggs" the rest of the way. Miss Golden gave up a total of nine hits, two to Janice Spencer who tripled and singled in three trips to the plate.

Jan Melanowski was tagged, for the loss.

The look of a champ

Winning 12 of their 14 games, the Bisons emerged from the Central-West Division of the Westland Youth Athletic Association's Major Little League with the coveted first place trophy. Members of the team include (kneeling, from left), Greg Rayl, Rick Bryson, George Asher, Doug

Dolphins win AAU swim meet opener

Pooling a wealth of experience, the Wayne Recreation Dolphin Swim Club surged after a mid-meet tie to claim victory in the 1976 Suburban Six Conference opener.

The Dolphins amassed 200 points to 192 by its nearest challenger, Crestwood. The leaders were followed by Riverside (182), Southgate (139), Allen Park (98) and Cherry Hill (84).

Mid-way through the contest, primarily a backstroke encounter, the Dolphins were tied with Southgate, each having 98 points after 10 events.

But the Wayne-Westland swimmers put on a burst of power in the final 10 events, capturing three first places, and four seconds, including victories in the final two events.

The meet, like four of the five which comprise the summer season, was an all-relay battle pitting girls against girls and boys against boys in the primary stroke, plus combinations and variations including medley relays (one length of each of the four competitive strokes), mixed relays (two boys and two girls), and combined-age relays (four swimmers whose combined ages add up to 50 or under).

Wayne will host the second Suburban Six tussle at 9 a.m. Saturday in the Attwood Pool, Howe and Annapolis roads.

The primary stroke will be the freestyle and again will feature relays of teams of girls, teams of boys and mixed teams in each of four age groups, 10-under, 11-12, 13-14, and 15 and over.

Other meets this season include two more all-relay encounters; breaststroke at Cherry Hill on July 22, and butterfly at Riverside on July 30, followed by an individual meet August 5 at Allen Park.

In the individual meet, each club selects two swimmers to compete in each of the four strokes, again girls against girls and boys against boys in the four age groups—this meet will also include medley relays in each age group.

The Dolphins, whose ranks have swelled to a record number of over 150 members this summer, called on experience to pull out its victory last Friday.

Catherine Batterson, one of five daughters of Wayne Councilwomen Mildred Batterson, paced the attack with three first-place ribbons, including one for the final event, an all-age backstroke relay she swam with Mike Greuber, Jamie Thompson and Karl Staber.

While their combined ages add up to 49, the quartet has been swimming for the Dolphins for a combined number of 15 years.

Miss Batterson also joined with sister Mary, Sandy Burns and Diane Brown for a first-place in the 100-yard 11-12 backstroke, and with Mary, Diane and Lori Miles for a victory in the 100-yard 11-12 medley relay.

Miss Thompson joined with Thelma Kew, Jenny Beckton and Sharon Fontaine for a first place in the girls' 13-14 backstroke relay, and gained a second-place ribbon with Miss Beckton, Teri Discher and Gretchen Batterson in the medley relay.

Miss Fontaine, Gretchen Batterson, Joe Miles and Mike Kuhn combined for an under-60 mixed freestyle relay win.

In addition to their two first places with Catherine Batterson, Mary Batterson and Diane Brown also teamed with Kurt (Korky) Whitehead and Eric Head to gain a second in the 11-12 mixed medley relay.

Whitehead and Head captured second places with Jeff Thompson and Todd Melanshek in the 11-12 boys' 100-yard back and 100-yard medley relays.

Two other Batterson girls—Tracey, 16, and Kelly, 15—also gained second places. Tracey swam with Julie Johnston, Rene Whitson and Sandy Parker for a second in the 15-18 backstroke relay, while Kelly teamed with Parker, Whitson and Lorraine Shaffer in the 15-18 medley relay.

The Dolphins' other second place went to the team of Harold Sleicher, (Continued on Page B-4)

Odd Squad is undefeated

Romulus East Division leader is 6-0

The Odd Squad and Baum's Funeral Home are the teams to catch this year in Romulus Parks and Recreation's women's softball league.

Baum's, whipping Dino's 11-7, holds down the No. 1 spot in the Western Division with a 6-1 record while the Odd Squad has the top perch in the Eastern Division with a perfect 6-0 mark.

Baum's Vickie Brainerd had a perfect day at the plate against Dino's as she slammed four for four, including a pair of singles, a double and triple. Teammates Carole Hammell and Cheryl Oaks also went two-for-two while Cindy Kramer carved out a couple of singles and a double which accounted for three RBI's.

Meanwhile, the Spirit of 76 unleashed a 30-hit attack to bury Nemo's 19-9 as pitcher Cindy Hood

Wayne's Class F leaders find detours on title road

Something has got to give in the Wayne Parks and Recreation's Class F baseball title race.

Both American League leader, the Athletics, and National League pacesetter, the Pirates, have 10-2 records, but that doesn't put them out of danger.

One step down and breathing down the leaders' necks are the Yankees (American League) and the Giants (National League) who are one game out of first.

And anything can happen in the stretch.

The Athletics got a couple of scares last week but managed to survive as they emerged with two victories to hold on to the lead.

Donnie Swanson hurled the league-leaders past the Dodgers 9-7, helping his own cause with a pair of home runs. Joe Day also gave the Athletics a lift with a 3-run homer.

Losing pitcher Barry Robinson collected two hits. Mates Greg Hoffman and John Grace, also checked in with a pair of RBI's and two hits apiece.

The Athletics dumped the Giants 8-5 as Joe Day picked up the win. Day received excellent hitting support from Brian Front and who swatted three singles, doubled and accounted for two RBI's.

Chuck Erikson was charged with the loss while mates Scott Cullihan and Richie Peters both slapped RBI singles.

The American League leaders also ran up against the National League pacesetters and lost a well-contested 5-2 decision.

Barry Conyers set down his rivals, giving up a pair of singles to Joe Day and a run-scoring single to Donnie Swanson.

Swanson, charged with the loss, was tagged for a homer and single by Conyers and also a two-run single by Mike Pasteralla and a run-scoring base hit by Keith Odum.

The Pirates survived a close call from the Red Sox, 8-7, as the losers stayed close thanks to Gary Johnson's grand slam home run.

Conyers again starred at the plate as he chalked up a pair of doubles and a single while Odum singled and doubled. Tom Pasteralla was the winning pitcher.

Charley Hull, who went the distance for the Red Sox, took the loss.

The Pirates had no problems with the Orioles as the National League leader jolted their rivals 8-1 behind Rickey Couch's fine pitching performance. Couch gave up a single to losing pitcher Greg Maxwell.

Conyers came through with four hits and three RBI's while Kevin Zimmerla and Bob Black split four Pirate hits.

Joe Jones tossed a 2-hitter, fanned 15 as the Senators shut out the Reds 2-0 in their confrontation. Jones drove in one of the runs with a single while teammate Danny Beckham belted a double and a single.

Tom Collop was the losing pitcher.

In another well-played game, the Giants edged the Orioles 3-2 as Brian

Westland Sports looks like champ

Barring a complete break-down, Westland Sports Goods has the Westland Parks and Recreation Department men's major softball championship in its pocket.

The league-leading Westlanders have compiled a 14-0 won-lost ratio which is three-games better than its nearest rivals, Studio Lounge and the Buzz Troop which are trailing behind at 10-3 marks.

Westland Sports built up its title stocks last week at the expense of Silver Bar Bullets, a team that bowed 19-8 to the league-leader.

Jim Johnson set the pace for the winners as he drilled a home run and accounted for four runs batted in. Teammate Tim Abramski also wielded a "hot" bat as he slammed a pair of homers and singled driving in four runs. Tom Piscopink had four hits, including a triple, double and a couple of singles while Bruce Thompson homered for the winners.

Jim Johnson, the winning pitcher, gave up three hits each to Denny Mogle and Pat Butler while Mark Koss clouted a homer, triple and single off of the Sporting Goods hurler.

Losing pitcher Jim Liddy was tagged for 24 hits.

The Dirty Dozens tallied 11 times in the top of the sixth inning to claim a 19-11 victory over Owl's Nest Restaurant. Dave Pallister went the distance for the winners, twirling a 10-hitter.

Ernest Albergast had a perfect day for the winners as he sliced five hits in five trips to the plate. Teammate Dick Jacobs knocked in five runs with two homers and a double and single. Bob Taylor missed hitting for the cycle when he failed to homer, but his single, double and triple brought home three runs. Dave Pallister helped his cause with three hits.

Dave Dietz, the losing pitcher, received ample hitting support from Vern Westerlund who pounded out two home runs and a double and accounted for five RBI's. Phil Zubor doubled and singled in two runs while Dick Westerlund's double chased in a couple of runs.

Big Bill's won a 24-6 slugfest from Glass Crutch with Rick Radatz, Jim Darmofal, Tim Dwojak and Jim Petrello wielding "big sticks".

Radatz collected three-for-four, including a single, double and triple which led to four RBI's. Darmofal piled up four hits in as many appearances at the plate while Petrello slammed a couple of doubles and tripled. Dwojak's contribution included two singles, paving the way for five RBI's.

Irv Simsick was the winning pitcher. He gave up 15 hits, four to Charley Riffle who batted in three runs with four singles. Ray Brewer had three hits and Bob Tabor picked up a double and single and two RBI's.

Losing pitcher Randy Brewer was hit hard, giving up a total of 22 hits.

In the only other major division confrontation, Studio Lounge rallied from a 5-0 deficit to a 16-8 victory over Kevin's Lounge.

Dennis Reitz had a four-for-four day at the plate, belting a homer and three singles for the winners. Teammate Ron Jones chalked up three hits and four RBI's while Mike Kosutich had a double and triple and Tom Wilmot collected a triple and Winning their first ribbons ever in competition were Dolphin newcomers Lori Shenk, Julie Lutz—both in 10-under, and Dave Hills, in 13-14 group.

In addition to gearing for league competition, the Wayne Recreation Dolphins are getting ready for the club's annual Wayne Invitational, to be held July 23 at the 50-yard Attwood Pool, and the Dolphin Swim-A-Thon, the club's only fund-raising drive.

chalked up the victory on a 11-hitter.

Miss Hood received ample hitting support. Nancy Deshon, Sherria Lowry, Peggi Summerfield and Carole Goecke all checked in with four hits.

Dino's bounced back to edge Baldo's 13-11 as Chris Dupe went the distance for the victory. She was tagged for 14 hits.

Dino's scored seven hits in the first inning and made it a 12-3 ball game before Baldo's surged back with eight runs in their fourth.

Alice Stratton made her two singles count for three RBI's while Faye Fredrick also counted three runs batted in thanks to a double and single. Teammate Sue Fitzpatrick also collected two singles for the winners.

The Odd Squad jolted Green Briar's Market 40-1 as Bertha Sterling tossed a fourhitter.

The issue was settled early as the Odd Squad tallied 20 runs in the opening inning, then coasted to its sixth consecutive victory. Pat Holcomb had four hits, Vickie Szyndar and Pat Dick each had four hits. Miss Dick and Theresa Gibson also hammered home runs.

Jan Coleman picked up her first shutout of the year, whipping Green Briar 34-0. The Dean & Company hurler gave up only two hits. Miss Coleman helped her own cause with three doubles, that scored four runs.

Anna Phillips hit for the cycle which led to eight RBI's, while Paula Hudson had a double and triple, also good for six runs batted in.

The Young Pioneers had no trouble with the U.S. Storm lineup as they throttled their rivals 16-4. Chandra Brown, the winning pitcher, gave up six hits.

The Stingers outclassed the 69ers, 21-10. Carol Harriff got credit for the win as the Stinger hurler starred at the plate as well. She sliced two singles, a double and homer in collecting four RBI's.

Barbara Calleja and Kathy Bartley each contributed four hits as Colley blasted a home run.

In other action, Dean & Company edged Kerri's 13-10 with Coleman picking up her fourth victory in a row. She contributed three hits and two RBI's to her cause and received good hitting support from Jan Fuller who had three hits and three RBI's.

run highlighted the Yankees' 16-2 victory over the Cubs. Teammate Mike Fontaine and Jim Nesbitt each had two hits while Mark Scott was the winning pitcher.

Jeff Armstrong was tagged for the loss.

Danny Peckham and Eric Rakitz each homered as the Senators stunned the Cards 13-2. Joe Jones had three hits that helped pave the way to Rakitz' pitching victory.

Kim Grubbs was the losing pitcher. He also collected two of the Cards' five hits.

The Tigers were also tough on the Cards, winning an easy 15-9 decision. Frank Cierpial was the losing pitcher while teammate Jim Connery contributed a three-run home run.

Jerry Perusse was the winning hurler while Steve Miller connected for a two-run double and David Beckey's double drove in another Tiger run.

Meanwhile, winning pitcher Jack Reynolds served up three hits to Dave Wahs and Jeff Hodgkins. Jim Kholmman's double counted for two RBI's and Ron Zubor hit a pair of singles.

Does your steering wheel come alive with jitters, especially at speeds above 45 or 50 miles per hour? This vibration is your clue to have the tires balanced, the sooner the better. As car speed increases, the heavy side of an unbalanced tire tries to lift the wheel as it rotates upward, then throws its weight at the road as it rotates downward. This movement is transferred through the steering linkage and steering column to the steering wheel, where you feel it with your hands.

Keep your car running and looking at its best with parts and tools from KOSIN'S AUTO PARTS, 26831 Michigan, Inkster! Melanisians refuse to treat or even meet the sick people of their tribe for fear of the demons they believe possess them.

More happy Chevette owners talk about their cars.

Howard Hale, Atlanta, Georgia.

"I'm 6'3" and the head room and leg room in the driver's seat are fine. I like Chevette's interior room."

Jan Dahl, Los Angeles, Calif.

"It does everything I wanted it to do. I'm delighted. I love it!"

David Hatch, Sherborn, Mass.

"Chevette is a dynamite car. You don't appreciate it until you get it out on the street. I traded in a VW."

Marilyn Summers, Atlanta, Georgia.

"I traded in a Fiat for my Chevette. I like the maneuverability and the fact that I don't feel like I'm in a small car."

Glenn Twitchell, Laguna Hills, Calif.

"It has better carrying capacity than I expected. I'm able to put 4-foot sheets of plywood in the back."

Leonard Stasiukiewicz, South Attleboro, Mass.

"I like Chevette because of the economy. I put on about 100 miles a day and that adds up."

Chevette

It could make you a happy owner, too.

In every Chevette Coupe there's a lot to make you happy. And it's all standard.

ROOM FOR FOUR—more head room than some mid-size cars. Front bucket seats.

WAGONLIKE CARRYING SPACE—fold down the rear seat back. Presto! 26 cu. ft. of flat, clear load area.

FULL-WIDTH HATCH DOOR—opens to take objects a full four feet wide.

VERY EFFICIENT 1.4-LITRE ENGINE—with hydraulic lash adjusters engineered for quiet valve operation. 13-gallon fuel tank. Larger 1.6-litre engine available.

FREEDOM BATTERY—Delco's carefree battery that never needs topping.

30.2-FOOT TURNING CIRCLE—one of the shortest of any car in the world. Great for city maneuvering.

RACK-AND-PINION STEERING SYSTEM—responsive and easy.

17 ANTI-CORROSION METHODS—Chevette is built with rust-fighters like wax base spray, epoxy paint, galvanized metal, zinc-rich paint primers, etc.

DIAGNOSTIC CONNECTOR—built in to allow quick, accurate checks of your Chevette's electrical system.

DO-IT-YOURSELF MANUAL—in every glove compartment, simple instructions to help you do minor maintenance.

No wonder so many people have good things to say about their Chevettes.

See one of America's more than 6,000 Chevy dealers for yourself. (That's nearly twice as many dealers as VW, Toyota and Datsun combined.) Your Chevy dealer would be more than happy to let you test-drive a new Chevette this week.

IN MEMORY OF JOYCE H. MILLER, who passed away one year ago July 17, 1975.

A million times we've missed her. A million times we've cried. If love alone could have saved her. She never would have died.

In life we loved her dearly. In death we love her still. An in our hearts she holds a place. No one else can ever fill. Even though she has gone away. She didn't go alone. For part of us went with her. The day God took her home. Sadly missed by husband, mother, sister, children and grandchildren.

IN MEMORY OF HARVEY BARNIER. Not dead to us who loved him. Not lost, but gone before. He lives with us in memory. And will forever more. Sadly missed by wife and children. (July 14, 1976)

IN MEMORY OF my wife, for 50 years of contentment, died July 18, 1974. May she forever rest in peace. Robert C. Williams, 35632 Brush, Wayne.

BLUEBERRIES
HOW TO BUY Look for plump blueberries with a fresh appearance. Avoid any baskets that are stained with juice. It's usually an indication that the berries are soft, watery and overripe. Store blueberries in the container they came in in your refrigerator. They'll keep a couple of days, but I'd recommend using them the same day you buy them. When ready to use, rinse them in cool water and pick out any stray stems.

BLUEBERRY DO IT YOURSELF DESSERT

SHORT CAKE

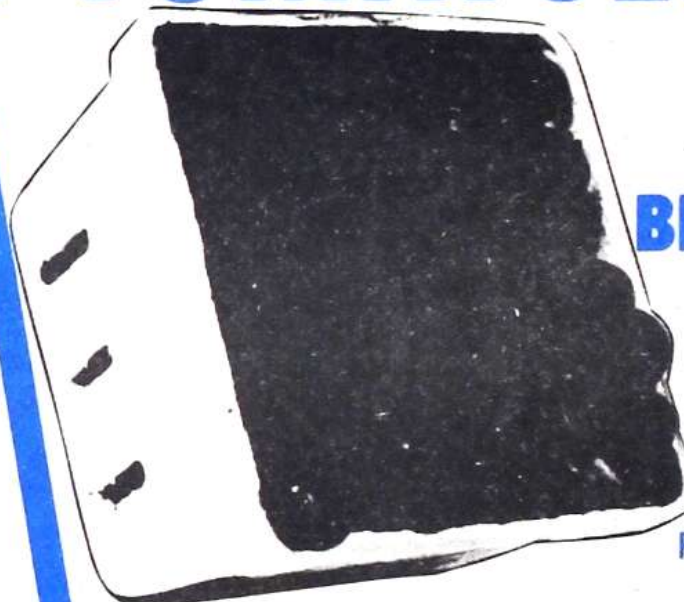

2 cups flour
2 tablespoons shortening
2 tablespoons salt
2 tablespoons sugar
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 1/2 cups milk

1 1/2 cups sugar
1 cup water
2 tablespoons lemon juice
2 cups blueberries

Sift flour and baking powder together. Into flour mixture, work shortening, sugar and salt using hands or fork to mix perfectly. Add milk and beat batter with wire whisk or wooden spoon for fifty strokes. Pour batter into greased 10-inch square baking dish. Bake at 400 degrees for 30 minutes. Serve warm with Blueberry Sauce and any additional toppings.

BLUEBERRY SAUCE

Cook sugar, water, lemon juice together until slightly syrupy, about 8 minutes. Add 1 cup of blueberries and cook additional 5 minutes. Cool. Add remaining fresh blueberries, mix well and chill until serving time.
